By ELLIS CUEVAS

Lydell Curry, of Hancock North Central, who gained 1,003 yards as a running back in 1983, signed a grant-in-aid football scholarship with Mississippi State University on Wednesday. Curry was named to the All Deep South Conference high school football team in 1982-83 and to the Gulf Coast Burger King Gulf Coast All-Star team in 1983.

Among the schools interested in Curry were Tennessee, Notre Dame, University of Southern Mississippi, Livingston (Ala.), Jackson State, Louisiana State University, Memphis State, and Auburn.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Curry of Pearlinton said he plans on becoming a dentist.

His parents reported their son selected Mississippi State because they offered him the most in education, which was their biggest concern. Curry said, "MSU showed the most interest in him, and everyone was very nice and friendly and not too far from home."

Irvin Favre, head coach at Hancock North Central stated, "Lydell did a good job as a Hawk in his three years rushing for 2,706 yards. In 1983 he scored 18 touchdowns."

Wesley Reed, recruiting coordinator for MSU represented the Bulldogs at the signing.

Curry's father, an employee of Martin-Merritt at Michoud, said his son started football at Charles B. Murphy Elementary school.

When questioned how his son started playing football, he stated, "He asked me if he could play, I asked him what did his mother say, and he replied 'no'. My wife and I got together and discussed it and finally agreed to let him play for awhile, as he would probably get knocked a few times and quit."

His father added, "He played elementary, junior high and high school."

Both of Curry's parents were elated over their son's being given a scholarship and the opportunities football is giving him.

The last Hawk to sign with Mississippi State was Richard Storey in 1978, according to Coach Favre.

Hancock schools athletic director replies to basketball critics

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Donald Hillman, Hancock North Central High School principal and County School District athletic director, says only one parent has complained to him about the basketball program at the high school.

He also reports Hancock teams are not winning as many games as in past years because the other teams in the Deep South Conference have improved significantly in recent seasons.

His comments Tuesday were in response to school patron complaints aired at a Hancock School Board meeting Monday night.

Billie Fay Lyons, board chairman, requested that the board conduct an executive session "to discuss personnel," but board member Tommy Shaw suggested that the complaining patrons decide if they wanted to publicly air their comments.

Executive sessions are closed meetings in which the general public and the press are not allowed to attend. Discussion in these closed meetings is limited to certain topics as specified in the Mississippi Open Meetings Law.

The complaining patrons seemed to indicate it made no difference to them how the matter was discussed, so the meeting remained open.

Greg Shaw, a school patron, said he and a lot of people are dissatisfied with HNC basketball coaches.

"To me it seems the coaches are not taking an interest in the kids," he stated.

Hillman attended the school board meeting, but did not respond to the complaints at that time.

The principal said Tuesday that he felt it improper to respond to the complaints at the meeting since the patrons were addressing the school board and not him.

"The only comments I'm getting on the coaches are favorable and this is from the players," he stated.

Although about six patrons voiced complaints at the meeting, Hillman said only one of them had first discussed the matter with him.

Hillman said Paul Smith suggested someone be hired solely as athletic director.

Smith said at the meeting that he felt the principal was overburdened with two jobs and the basketball teams needed to be improved.

The principal stated, "I consider Mr. Smith a good friend of mine and he's entitled to his opinion."

"But I've been doing both these jobs for four years. I'm the first one to admit it's hard to hold both of these jobs down, but I'm doing the best I can," Hillman stated.

Hillman said HNC athletic programs have not suffered because of his dual role and noted the HNC varsity basketball teams' win-loss records are about even.

He reported the HNC High School boys have an 8-12 record and the varsity girls are 9-11.

"We've won about as many games as we have lost. The competition in the Deep South Conference is tough," he stated.

The principal reported Bay Senior and Stone County High Schools have in recent years built teams which have dominated the conference.

Smith and other two other unidentified patrons reported that the district no longer purchases tennis shoes or after-game meals for basketball players.

Terrell Randolph, county superintendent of education, noted the school district is facing a $250,000 deficit in its 1983-84 budget unless expenditures are reduced.

He said the athletics program budget has been cut, but not as much as academic program expenditures which has resulted in drastic reduction of funds for teachers' classroom supplies.

Shaw asked if coaches are hired based on coaching ability and Randolph replied, "We hire for their teaching ability, but realistically we may hire them as a coach and throw them into the classroom."

An unidentified patron charged that a coach cursed on the sideline during a game.

Hillman said he has never heard a coach use "foul language" during a game.

Another patron reported basketball team players were spitting water on the floor of the gymnasium.

The principal said a player once spit on the floor, a parent told a coach about it and the team member was reprimanded by the coach.

Shaw said he wanted to know when teachers and coaches are reprimanded for

Waveland, Pass, Henderson Point crossing improvements considered

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The State Highway Department is considering installing electric warning signals at railroad crossings on two streets in Waveland, one in the Henderson Point area and three in Pass Christian.

These signals will not be installed before Amtrak's Gulf Coast passenger train begins operation in conjunction with the New Orleans World's Fair. Construction will begin in 12 to 18 months.

Ed Hollingsworth, assistant construction engineer of the State Highway Department Southern District based in Hattiesburg, said Wednesday morning that the crossing improvements are part of a statewide Federal Highway Administration safety project.

He reported Mississippi has been allocated $3 million to improve dangerous railroad crossings during a three-year period beginning in fiscal year 1984 (October 1983).

The federal government will provide 90 percent of the funds for each crossing if local community governments agree to pay 10 percent of the cost.

"We're looking at crossings where there could be or have been serious accidents, and where there is a lot of traffic," Hollingsworth stated.

Mayor John Longo reported at a recent Waveland Board of Aldermen meeting that signals would be installed at Waveland, Coleman and Nicholson Avenues and St. Joseph Street in the project.

But Hollingsworth said Nicholson and Waveland Avenues are the only crossings considered a high priority for funding in that city.

Regarding St. Joseph and Coleman, he stated, "We saw other crossings, but I didn't enter them for this project."

He reported an inspection team consisting of federal, state and city officials and Seaboard System Railroad representatives recently viewed all crossings along the Mississippi Gulf Coast to determine where improvements are needed.

Hollingsworth said Waveland Avenue, since there are two parallel tracks there, would qualify for a standard signal flasher with bells and moving gates which would cost $80,000 to $70,000.

Nicholson Avenue needs a signal flasher with its lights angled to warn Central Avenue traffic which would cost $50,000 to $60,000, he reported.

Light and bell signals are also being sought for Third Avenue in Henderson Point and Clark Street in Pass Christian, Hollingsworth said.

The highway department official said light and bell signals with gates are needed at Esby Street in the Pass because of the double tracks at that crossing.

At Menge Avenue in the Pass, light and bell signals and a vehicle track crossing mat constructed of a rubbery material is needed, Hollingsworth reported.

The Waveland aldermen Tuesday night authorized a letter to Hollingsworth notifying the state that the city is committed to funding its share of railroad crossing construction there.

A letter was also authorized by the aldermen requesting the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to provide half of the local share for the Waveland crossing improvements.

Bert Courge, District One Hancock supervisor, attended the meeting and reported the county would join the city in locally funding the project.

Longo said, based on the city getting four crossings improved, that the local share would be $24,000.

The local share for the two crossings would range from $11,000 to $13,000.

The mayor and Hollingsworth both reported the crossing construction would begin in 12 to 18 months at the earliest.

The Pass Christian Board of Aldermen and Harrison County Board of Supervisors have not yet taken any action regarding the federal program, according to spokesmen at that City Hall and County Courthouse in Gulfport.

Expansion plans announced

Essex to buy Hancock TV

By NAN PATTON EHRRIGHT

A new company is taking over cable television service in Hancock County, and expansion of service will affect some 1,500 homes in the next few months.

In meetings earlier this week with the Hancock Board of Supervisors, the Bay St. Louis City Council and the Waveland Aldermen, Dave W. Pardoner, president of The Essex Group, said the company has already committed $100,000 for new construction prior to execution of sale, which he estimates will take place in mid-May.

"Our plans call for an expenditure of $750,000 in construction during the next two years to upgrade the system, add new channels and expand the system to round out the city areas and extend into county areas," he said.

The company is being purchased from Hancock Community Cable Inc., which is owned 20 percent by local investors and 80 percent by Lamar Communications of Jackson.

"I think it's safe to say that within a month we'll begin to hook up customers in the annexed area of Bay St. Louis," Pardoner said.

Pardoner said Hancock Community Cable General Manager Jake Jacob has already mapped the majority of the area and is working now on final designs.

"We're preparing purchase orders right now and expect them to go out within a week," Pardoner said.

"Jake is also making final arrangements with contractors. There's too much work to be handled by the local crew. This has to be scheduled with the arrival date of materials. We'll get this confirmed as soon as purchase orders reach the vendors."

Pardoner said plans for expansion are designed in two phases.

Phase I will, for the most part, expand present service to include virtually all homes within the incorporated areas of Waveland and Bay St. Louis.

"Once the contract is executed," Pardoner said, "we'll get into the addition of channels."

"Our focus right now is to work with Hancock Community Cable to get service into areas that don't have it."

Phase I also includes service to Clermont Harbor.

"We'll be building for the rest of the year," Jacob noted.

Phase II, which is anticipated to begin toward the end of the year, would extend service to some areas in Lakeshore, Jordan River Shores and

Headstart early Fall registration underway

Mississippi Action For Progress, Inc. is pre-registering children at the Bay-Waveland Mt. Zion and Catahoula Headstart Centers weekdays through March 2 from 7-9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

On March 1 and 2 hours will be extended to 5:30 p.m.

Children registered during this period will be screened by the Hancock County MAP Council for recommendation for enrollment when centers re-open in September.

The eligibility criteria for enrollment include children ages 3, 4, and 5 years with family income below poverty and/or on welfare.

Parents of children in this age group with handicapping conditions are encouraged to register their handicapped children.

Handicapped children are defined as those who are mentally retarded, hard of hearing, deaf, speech impaired, visually handicapped, seriously emotionally disturbed, crippled, or otherwise health impaired who by reason thereof require special education and related services.

Parents desiring to pre-register their children are asked to go to the closest center for registration.

Parents are asked to carry a certified copy of their child's birth certificate, Medicaid card (if on welfare), immunization card and proof of income, such as W-2 form, or income tax return.

For information, contact Ms. Jean Dorsey, Bay-Waveland County director, 467-3285; Ms. Glendell Hall, Mt. Zion center director in Pearlington, 533-7885; or Ms.

Doris Ladner, Catahoula center director, 255-7312.

homes north of Hwy. 603. The company is also looking into the possibility of providing service to Pearlington.

"We're not making any commitments to serve all homes," Pardonner said, "but we're going to the trouble of engineering work."

"We're looking at all the options, including microwave—a point-to-point wireless communications system."

Pardonner said plans call for adding additional channels to the system, "by June or July I would hope."

Installation charges for Essex service, he said, will run $20 to $25.

Customers who now receive service through Hancock Community Cable will continue with the same monthly rates subject to modest increases due to inflation.

When the channel capability is increased from the present 12 up to 16-18, new customers will pay a higher monthly rate, and customers who opt to receive additional channels will pay a higher rate, Pardonner said.

"The rate increase would be $3 to $4 per month," he estimated.

Pardonner said The Essex Group, which has home offices in Greenwich, Conn., is composed of five management companies.

Essex Communications Corp., the first of the Essex companies, was activated in November 1979.

The first cable system was acquired in late December of 1979.

According to Pardonner The Essex Group now services 72,000 customers with 53 cable systems in Alabama, Florida, Maryland, Michigan, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee and West Virginia.

Pardonner told the supervisors Monday that Waveland and Bay St. Louis are receiving a three percent franchise fee on a monthly basis, and that the county will receive income from that fee when lines become operational within the county.

He said that cable communication systems are governed by local, state and federal regulations, but noted there are no state regulations in Mississippi.

At the federal level, he said, the FCC has put a five percent ceiling on franchise fees.

The majority of franchises, he said, are for three percent.

Because the franchise fee is for regulation, the FCC requires evidence when a governing body asks for a franchise fee above three percent.

"Very few can show they need more to regulate the business," he said.

The Bay City Council voted unanimously to approve the transfer of the franchise to The Essex Group after Pardonner said the company accepted all the terms of the franchise unconditionally.

The motion to approve included a condition that Pardonner deposit $25,000 in an escrow account to guarantee that Essex will fulfill the construction plans outlined for the next two or three months.

The interest will be turned over to Essex when construction plans have been implemented.

Following the council meeting, Council President Wilmer Seymour, who has discussed cable TV problems regularly at council meetings for some months, said "That's the best news I've heard in a long time."

"Please say I'm smiling," he told the news media.

Why We Can't Renovate The Present Facility...

The construction of a new hospital for Hancock County has been much in the news lately. In order to clarify many points and questions being asked by the public, the Hancock General Hospital Board of Trustees would like to take this means to answer some of these questions.

Did You Know

1. Hancock General Hospital was built in 1960 as a 36-bed facility, with support services for those 36 beds. In 1964, 20 additional beds were added, but no provisions were made to expand the support services.

2. At the present facility, there is a traffic problem due to a lack of improvements to Dunbar Avenue and the traffic from the elementary school across the street. The shopping center at Dunbar Avenue and Highway 90 has created additional traffic problems.

3. During Hurricane Camille in 1969, the hospital received water only in the boiler room, but nothing in the facility itself. But it did become inaccessible due to flood waters filling lowlying areas surrounding the hospital and blocking access roads.

4. According to a building evaluation study done in 1981 by Nix, Mann and Associates, Inc., of Atlanta, Georgia, by request of Hospital Corporation of America, the electrical systems and equipment at Hancock General are in relatively poor condition. Repair and updating would be difficult in many instances due to inaccessibility of parts and ceilings.

5. The mechanical systems in the present building, according to the same study, are 17-23 years old, approaching or exceeding the normal life expectancy of most of the equipment. It is not unreasonable to have major expenditures to replace or make major repairs to the equipment within the next few years.

6. Renovation of the present building would take approximately two years, during which time the hospital could not be operational, since renovation would involve the whole facility. Also there would also be no improvement in flow patterns, and the old systems would be difficult to change due to the present layout, such as the use of the main corridor for visitors, emergency equipment, post surgery and delivery patients, location of the nursery, etc.

7. In order to correct the deficiencies in the present building, it would cost approximately $3.4 million, while the addition of 30,000 square feet would cost another $4.5 million, and these figures do not include the cost of new equipment, estimated at approximately $2.3 million, or the financing cost itself.

CONCLUSION:

Therefore, a new hospital facility is necessary for the following major reasons:

- The cost of upgrading the present facility.
- The difficulty of adding to the existing structure.
- The age of the original building and systems.

Bay council authorizes design stage improvements

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Tuesday the Bay St. Louis City Council authorized the Jackson engineering firm of Lewis-Eaton to proceed with design plans for a $2.5 million project for sewer and water extensions in the annexed area of the city.

City Clerk Edward Favre advised the council that no petitions for election had been filed following the declaration of intent to issue bonds for the project.

A Farmers Home Administration loan to finance the project will be repaid through the issuance of $900,000 in revenue bonds and $1,600,000 in general obligation bonds.

Ray Eaton told the council it will take five or six months to complete the design stage.

In the meantime, a bond attorney will prepare the paperwork to sell the bonds.

The anticipated date for actual work to begin is August or September.

Also Tuesday, Concerned Citizens President Geraldine Lang presented a letter and petition signed by 157 Bay residents protesting a new policy which increases the deposit required from persons who have been delinquent in paying their utility bills.

Lang's letter suggests that "...the deposit paid initially for turning on the utilities be kept for 90 days or until the bill is paid."

"If the bill is left unpaid for 90 days, the deposit should be used against the bill."

"If reinstatement is requested, the same deposit should be demanded for reinstallation of services."

"We also suggest that the 1 1/2 interest penalty per month be removed."

The letter was taken under advisement.

In another matter, the council advised Lang that Rev. Johnny Saucier, Father Francis Theriault and Thaddeus Williams have been appointed to the Citizens Advisory Committee for the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Program.

Following a presentation by Eaton Lang of Pass Christian, attorney for Mississippi Power Co., the council agreed to sell a parcel of land adjoining the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District's Bay St. Louis oxidation pond to Mississippi Power Co.

Lang assured the council that use of the land for an electrical power substation would not interfere with the present lagoon system or any proposed expansion.

Some time ago Mississippi Power Company bought a block of land on the west side of Turner Street for a proposed substation.

Lang said the company now proposes to offer that land for sale.

Lang's proposal included a provision that the purchase price shall be determined by the city and the wastewater district and shall not be less than the average of the fair market price as determined by three professional property appraisers.

Mississippi Power Company will pay the appraisal fee.

The council agreed to proceed with the sale by declaring the property as surplus and arranging for a variance in zoning.

Lang noted that the purchase will add an estimated $8,000 or $9,000 per year to the ad valorem tax base.

NOAA grant to provide oyster reef rehabilitation

Mississippi's oyster reefs, ravaged by an onslaught of fresh water in 1983, will be rebuilt this spring and fall with a $500,000 federal grant from the U.S. National Oceanic Atmospheric Administration.

Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources in Long Beach said the money will be spent to plant clam shells on the Pass Marianne, Telegraph, St. Joe and Henderson Point reefs.

Clam shells also will be planted on the Pass Christian dredging reef, the Pass Christian tonging reef and the Long Beach tonging reef.

That particular method of rehabilitating an oyster reef has shown itself to be successful in the past, with the excellent oyster season in 1982 a result of clam shell plantings in 1979 and 1980.

Results from the planting will not be seen for approximately 18 months.

The shells will be planted in May or June and again in the fall.

The major damage to oysters in 1983 was caused when the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers opened the Bonnet Carré Spillway on the Mississippi River north of New Orleans.

The spillway opening allowed fresh water to flood Lake Pontchartrain, which empties into the Mississippi Sound.

IRISHISM
Public television's "Frontline" documentary series looks — through American eyes — at the Irish Republican Army (IRA) and the conflict in Ireland at 9 p.m., Friday, Feb. 10 on Mississippi Educational Television.

"Frontline" looks at the situation from the perspective of Irish Americans, those who support the IRA and its strategy of violence.

The focal point of the film is 82-year-old Michael Flannery. Flannery was Grand Marshall of the New York St. Patrick's Day Parade last year and is an outspoken advocate of the IRA.

He admits on film to being a terrorist, and viewers journey back to Ireland with him to the spot where he joined in an attack on British troops that left a dozen dead.

That was 50 years ago, but Flannery is still active. Viewers see him admit to helping get guns for the IRA and watch him chortle about convincing a jury to let him off because he was just a patriot like "General George Washington."

Truck driver charged in school bus accident

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Pascagoula man was cited with reckless driving in connection with a Tuesday morning accident in which a truck collided head-on with a Pass Christian Municipal Separate School District bus.

Frances McQuire of the Harrison County Sheriff's Department Communications Department said Wednesday afternoon that Dwayne L. Gregory, 23, of Pascagoula is charged with reckless driving.

McQuire said no injuries resulted from the accident, but George Watson, Pass assistant school superintendent, said Wednesday morning that about three students were riding the bus when the accident occurred and they may have received a few minor scratches from flying glass.

He reported the school bus is 'extensively damaged' as a result of the mishap.

The sheriff's department spokesman said an accident report filed by Deputy Larry Burnett states that the collision occurred at about 7:06 a.m. on Bells Ferry Road.

Mary A. Moore, 29, of Pass Christian was driving the bus eastbound on Bells Ferry at about two miles-per-hour when Gregory's single axle truck, westbound on the road and traveling at about 45 m.p.h., crossed over the yellow center line and struck the bus on the left front side, McQuire said the accident report states.

"There were no injuries and no witnesses," she said the report indicates.

Investigating officers were Burnett and Capt. Ricky Gaston, she added.

Randolph stated, "We want to win, but we're in a new era in Mississippi..."

He explained the public school districts are expected to cooperate with the Legislature in its efforts to improve education in Mississippi through the Education Reform Act.

IN CONGRESS

By Cong. Trent Lott

FOOT-DRAGGING IN THE HOUSE

The liberal House leadership is wearing its lead shoes again when it comes to the legislative calendar.

The weighty matters of state and the real problems people have with government's intrusion into their private lives, crime, bankruptcy, taxes and other issues are being delayed while the House engages in petty partisan bickering.

In fact, the House schedule since the opening day of the Second Session of the 98th Congress on January 23 has left the liberals with plenty of time for playing politics with the budget, the deficit, Lebanon and the presidential campaign.

Their inactivity, while part of America's political process, is a sad commentary on how the House conducts its business.

Today, as a comparison, let's take a look at the work schedules and calendars of the Republican-controlled Senate and the Democrat-controlled House of Representatives so far this session.

The comparison covers the period of Jan. 23, the first day of the new session, to Feb. 2, the date this column was written. The usual legislative housekeeping chores are not included.

Here are the major actions of the U.S. Senate as noted by Senator Ted Stevens, of Alaska, the Assistant Majority Leader:

- Passed the Comprehensive Crime Control Act and several anti-crime bills dealing with sentencing offenders and bail reforms, all designed to strengthen the federal criminal code;

- Passed a bill reducing rates of pay for members of Congress;

- Considered a bill to preserve universal telephone service; and,

- The Senate Judiciary Committee reported to the floor a proposed constitutional amendment to restore prayer in schools.

The House, on the other hand, considered a variety of legislation which, while needed in some cases, largely increased the rate of federal spending.

A program to weatherize homes for low-income families, for example, would rise to $13 billion, and money authorized for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration would go up to more than $1.3 billion.

The House Judiciary Committee has refused for months to even consider the school prayer and criminal code reform matters. One senior Democrat on the committee was quoted as saying the Senate-passed school prayer amendment would never see the light of day in the House.

These actions highlight a stark contrast between the operations of the House and Senate so far this year, a contrast that is due to different concepts of leadership in the two bodies.

One body has acted to strengthen the hand of federal law enforcement officers, cut spending and return prayer to public schools.

The other has acted to increase spending, play politics and ignore problems the country faces in the areas of crime and individual rights.

Small-business Angle

by Wilson S. Johnson

It was not long ago that high interest rates were the main concern of small-business owners. Now that interest rates have come down some, the climate for small business is improving, and we think 1984 will be a good year. But there is one significant threat to continued strength in the economy: the huge federal deficit. Small-business people I have been talking to are concerned. The ask, "Why can't the federal government do something about the huge deficits?"

One way to reduce deficits is to cut the cost of running the government. The President's Private Sector Survey on Cost Control — a commission looking for ways to cut the cost of government — recently handed its report to President Reagan. The report identified more than $400 billion in savings which could be realized over a three-year period.

Small business was well represented on that commission. Wilson Johnson, board chairman of the National Federation of Independent Business, headed a key task force. NFIB board member Bruce Fielding and another NFIB member, William Onsted, handled the day-to-day operations of the task force. The NFIB-led task force produced cost-cutting recommendations amounting to $72 billion.

Bruce Fielding says there are no "miracles" in the task-force findings. "All we did was apply common business sense," he says.

For example, the group found that the government could save $6.4 billion over three years by paying bills when due. Not many small-business people I know pay bills ahead of time, but some government agencies are doing just that.

Or consider the case of sub-agencies, such as the Farmers Home Administration: They are using what Fielding calls "the old cigar box" technique of depositing receipts. The receipts pile up in boxes for as much as two weeks before being deposited. The task force said use of a national lock-box system, allowing centralized agencies to make daily deposits, could save another $6 billion over three years.

President Reagan can act on 40 percent of the commission recommendations without a congressional OK, but Congress has to act on almost two-thirds of them, and that could be trouble.

In an article in the January issue of Reader's Digest, Trevor Armbrister illustrates how difficult it will be to move Congress to act. He says the commission report found that of 4,000 military bases in the continental U.S., only 312 are considered vital to national security.

"But," says Armbrister, "any time the (defense) department wants to save money by shutting down a base, Congress won't hear of it." The commission report says it costs $2 billion to $5 billion a year to maintain these bases.

Small-business owners do not understand the reluctance of the Congress to take action.

Pork barrel projects and underused bases may have been the stuff of reelection in the past, but with a federal deficit of $170 to $200 billion staring us in the face, and the higher interest rates a real possibility again, Congress should pay close attention to the people I hear from and act soon on the recommendations of the Private Sector Survey on Cost Control.

There is a real opportunity to cut federal spending, but 60 percent of the $100 billion in savings will require action by your representatives and mine.

Senator

Thad Cochran

Do you know what Marion Albert Pruett, Earl Leroy Cassel, and Warren Simms had in common?

I will tell you. They were at one time selected for participation in the federal government's Witness Security Program.

In exchange for their testimony against organized crime figures, the government relocated them, gave them new names, and jobs, and thereby tried to protect them from harm or death at the hands of those who were convicted as a result of their testimony.

What else those men had in common was that they all ended up in Mississippi where two of them committed murder and the other participated in a bank robbery that cost a person her life.

When I first learned that Marion Albert Pruett had been under the protection of the federal government, and that he might never have been able to go on his robbery and murder spree if his background had been known to local law enforcement authorities in New Mexico where he was suspected of killing his wife, I started looking into this federal program.

If the government was protecting criminals, who was supposed to protect the lives and property of innocent citizens?

I learned that a $17 million program had grown to be so large that it had become unmanageable and that potentially dangerous criminals were being placed in communities without supervision.

Since 1976, at least 12 people had been murdered in cases where protected persons had been implicated.

The two Mississippi murders occurred in Jackson and Pascagoula, and the bank robbery was in Natchez.

No screening was done to try to determine if a witness was too dangerous to be turned loose in a new town where his record was not known by the local police.

Now that has changed.

The United States Senate has approved changes in this program at my request to help make it less likely that dangerous criminals can qualify as federally protected witnesses and be relocated to new areas where they can be a threat to innocent people.

Before a person can be put in this program, the attorney general must now assess the potential for harm to society by reviewing the criminal history and a psychological evaluation of the person to be protected.

Also, as soon as requested by local law enforcement officials, accurate background information must be disclosed by federal authorities to aid in the administration of justice and law enforcement at the local level.

I was not able to get the Senate to agree to one of my amendments.

It involved the establishment of a Victim's Compensation Fund to help compensate for the loss of life or serious bodily injury caused by the criminal conduct of a federally protected witness.

It was agreed, however, that hearings would be held and an effort made to develop a comprehensive crime victim's relief program at the federal level in the near future.

These changes in the law were certainly needed to help balance in a more appropriate way the safety of innocent citizens with the government's interest in prosecuting major crime figures against whom evidence and testimony are very hard to obtain.

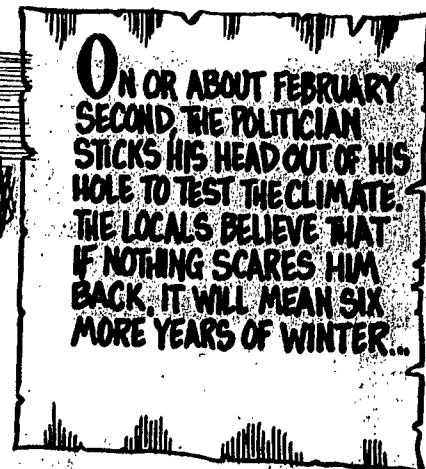

It is my strong hope that we will never again hear that a person being protected as a federal government witness has gone on a rampage of crime leaving death and plunder in his wake.

Money doesn't pay.

No use hiding money in a trunk. It's not working for you. And that doesn't pay.

But you can get a nice payoff through the Payroll Savings Plan. A little is set aside from each paycheck to buy Bonds. And that little soon grows substantially.

So stuff your trunk with variable rate Savings Bonds. Put your money where it pays.

Campaign against gambling in private places is an injustice to veterans

Letter to the Editor

In reply to the information published in the Sunday Echo pertaining to the removal of the slot machines in the VFW halls on the Coast:

If there is anyone on this earth I will stand up for and fight for it is the men in uniform, now and in the past, who have given of themselves and put their lives on the line so that we may have peace and have a free country.

I am an ex-career man's wife, and now am with a veteran. I have been overseas, and seen what our men go through, and to think that anyone would want to take what recreation they have from the private clubs is a darn disgrace.

Now, the VFW clubs are not open to the public, except on a dance night, once in a while.

The only other time an outsider is allowed is when asked to visit the club with a member.

So why should these machines be removed? If this be the case, then all bingo, lotteries, raffles, etc. should be stopped in the local churches and business groups.

I do not feel these are problems in our communities.

We can not see our officials putting any excess time on crimes, burglaries, drunks problems, or dope. Those are the problems that are in bad need of cleaning up.

It is a bad thing when our servicemen can not have a place to go for recreation, relax, and have no hassle from a bunch of people who do not know how to behave in public.

Please do not do this to our men in uniform. It is not fair nor right, and is very unjust. They deserve better than this.

Thank you,

Disabled American Veterans chapter supporting remembrance of hospitalized veterans during week of Feb. 14

Dear Editor:

Each year during the week of Feb. 14, the Veterans Administration asks the public to remember America's hospitalized veterans. These veterans are often far from their families and friends. They need to know that somebody cares.

This year we are hoping the veterans in local rest homes and veterans hospitals will be remembered especially during the week of Feb. 14. DAV and also members of all veterans organizations can help by visiting them during this week.

We ask that members of the DAV support the 1984 National Salute to Hospitalized Veterans.

Nothing helps like being remembered. Let's combine our efforts to awaken public awareness of those so deserving remembrance—America's veterans.

Public financing of private driveways, graves tied to trillion-dollar national deficits

February 6, 1984

Dear Editor:

TO: Our County Supervisors, Our Legislators, Our President and Congress

Whoopie! The millennium has come! Now our supervisors will have their own CPA's and will give us all free graves, driveways and graves!

Awe shucks! I forgot: will these goodies be for all of us or only those who vote right? And who is going to pay the bill? But no negative thoughts!

And the good old U.S.A. is going to police and pacify the world! And prosperity has come to the nation with a budget of only a trillion and two hundred billion dollar deficits.

Just have faith and make the budget a quadrillion with a trillion in deficits and we will have super prosperity for everybody!

Just accentuate the positive - or is it the absurd?

Karen Ladner is selected Hancock Miss Chamber 1984

BY NAN P. EHRBRIGHT
Karen Ladner of Bay St. Louis was chosen Saturday as Miss Hancock County Chamber of Commerce 1984.

Ms. Ladner, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ladner, will represent the Chamber at numerous functions during 1984, including Miss Hospitality Day at the Hospitality Center, Morning Call Breakfasts, the St. Patrick's Day Parade and the Triton, Diamondhead and Nereid's Parades.

As Miss Chamber, Ms. Ladner will also be entered in the Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo in Gulfport during the July 4 weekend, and the Bay St. Louis Hospitality Contest.

She will also participate in the Welcome Center Pilgrimage April 4.

Runner-up in the 1984 contest was Teresa Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis A. Thomas of Bay St. Louis. Other contestants were Marcy Asher, Kerri Breland and Lisa Kingston.

Miss Chamber 1984 was selected Saturday afternoon at the VFW Post in Bay St. Louis.

Members of the VFW auxiliary helped with refreshments.

Judges included Arcelyn Dastugue, Margaret Gavagnie, Janelle Kern, Donna Rose and Greg Smith.

Each contestant received a gold-plated seashell necklace, a 1984 World's Fair pin and a World's Fair sticker from the chamber.

In addition, Ms. Ladner received gifts from numerous chamber members, including L.L. Ltd., People's Federal Savings, John Auderer, Li'l Ray's, Southern Charm, N.S.T.L., Cathy's Jewelry and Gifts, Sportsworld, Jeannie's Gift Shop, Ellen Kane Gift Shop, Reimann's Insurance and Cathy Ladner's State Farm Insurance.

Also, from John Mason's Exxon, Landmark Restaurant, Pauline's Sportswear, The Princess Dress Shoppe, The Hair Hut, Bay Technical Associates, Elaine's Aerobics, Cato's, K Mart and Hancock County Welcome Center.

The 1984 Miss Chamber activity was coordinated by Special Events Chairman Jeanne Garcia of Waveland.

CAIRE

Those puffy golden casseroles called 'stratas' were, I think, the invention of ingenious and thrifty cooks back in the 1930s when money was scarce, just as today, yet the taste buds had to be appeased as well as the hungry stomach!

'Strata' of course means 'layers' - and that's what you do - layer leftover bread with eggs and milk and cheese and whatever vegetables or meats or such on hand, with the final result a delicious and filling casserole.

The smoothness of the custard contrasts with the zesty taste of the bread ingredients, and there's an extra bonus: stratas can be assembled ahead of time, even the night before, to make it easy on the hurried cook.

The strata is somewhat like a soufflé. In fact, around here we call it a 'Sneaky Soufflé,' and if the family doesn't hurry to the table and the concoction collapses somewhat, just smile and call it your 'Fallen Angel Soufflé.' That's what I do.

One of my favorites, which is somewhat like a spinach quiche, is:

SPINACH CHEESE STRATA
1 loaf day-old French bread, preferably
1 large onion, chopped
2 Tbsp. butter
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach, thawed
Dashes pepper, salt, hot pepper sauce
3 eggs
1½ cups shredded Swiss cheese
2½ cups milk
Slice bread thinly and line bottom of a buttered baking dish (about 6-cup size) with half the slices. Sauté the onion in the butter, squeeze the spinach very dry and add to the skillet along with the seasonings, stirring together.

Spread the spinach mixture over the bread in the casserole, sprinkle a cup of the cheese over it, and top with the remaining bread.

Beat the eggs in a bowl, stir in the milk, then pour the mixture over the bread. Sprinkle the remainder of the cheese atop, cover, and refrigerate at least a few hours or overnight. Bake, uncovered in a 350 to 375 degree oven for 45 minutes or until it's all puffed up and golden brown. And if it's getting too brown too fast, cover with foil. Let stand for 10 minutes before you serve it. (Six servings.)

Other good combinations: diced ham and cheddar cheese instead of the spinach; and Swiss cheese; tuna and cheese; sausage, or a combination of vegetables and cheese - just use your imagination and whatever's on hand and about to go to waste. That's the cardinal sin in a thrifty cook's kitchen! (Copyright, 1984, Katharine D. M. Caire)

Southern professor developing deep space measuring circuitry

Theodore Bogart, associate professor of electronics engineering technology at the University of Southern Mississippi, recently received a grant from NASA to further develop a computer model which will improve electronic circuitry and reduce electrical noise levels that obstruct the measurement of high energy radiation from space.

Bogart's work on the computer simulation of the electronic circuitry will be used in a detecting device mounted in the NASA satellite called the High-Energy Astronomy Observatory (HEAO) which was placed in space in August 1977.

The satellite detects and measures levels of X band radiation (x-rays) from remote galactic sources in space.

The six month grant is the outgrowth of an investigation Bogart began while serving as a NASA/ASEE Summer Faculty Research Fellow at the NASA Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, MD in the summer of 1983.

The initial phase of the investigation was performed at the Laboratory for High Energy Astrophysics.

The computer simulation will improve the ability of scientists to accurately study and observe the emission of energies from a variety of objects, including coronas of nearby stars, distant clusters of galaxies and remote compact galaxies such as quasars. According to the 1978 December issue of "Sky and Telescope" magazine, these sources are seen against what appears to be a cosmological diffuse background, which may hold the secret to where most of the mass of the universe is.

"The detector is held at a temperature near absolute zero to keep the noise level at a minimum," Bogart said. "This extreme temperature makes it difficult to model on a computer since all semiconductor properties are very temperature sensitive."

Bogart said he doesn't know how long it will take to finish the program or when the detector will be placed in the satellite, but he plans to return to NASA in Maryland this summer to continue his fellowship work refining and further developing the computer models for the radiation detector systems.

Bogart received the Excellence in Teaching Award at USM in 1979, the ASEE/DELOS national award for Excellence in Laboratory Instruction in 1983 and is a registered professional electrical engineer in the state of California.

Congressman sponsoring youth art competition

Congressman Trent Lott has launched an art competition for high school students in the Fifth Congressional District. The winning entry will be displayed this summer along with artworks from districts across the country, in a corridor of the U.S. Capitol—an area dedicated to the artistic skills of today's young artists. According to Lott, the contest is part of "An Artistic Discovery," the third annual competition implemented by members of the U.S. House of Representatives to recognize the creative talents of young Americans.

Between now and May 31 members will conduct local competitions for high school students in order to select artwork to be displayed in the national exhibition.

"Nothing is more important to the soul of America than its artistic heritage," said Lott. "This competition allows us to encourage our young artists whose creative energies are so vital to our rich cultural traditions."

The competition, to be again directed by the South Mississippi Art Association, will be conducted at no expense to the Federal government, and is open to any high school student in the Fifth District.

Artwork must be two-dimensional and no larger than 30" x 30" (unframed). Eligible categories are paintings, drawings, collages, and prints.

For further information contact Competition Coordinator Carol Hickman, Office of Congressman Trent Lott, Room 215, Federal Building, Hattiesburg, telephone 582-3246.

The Fifth District is composed of: Hancock, Forest, George, Greene, Harrison, Jackson, Lamar, Pearl River, Perry, Stone, Wayne and a southern portion of Jones Counties.

ETV Brief

Romantic comedy is on tap for Valentine's Day on Mississippi ETV. "Popular Neurotics" will be presented on "American Playhouse" at 9 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 14.

Jeff Goldblum ("The Big Chill") and Mimi Kennedy star in the one-hour production, written by newcomer Aubrey Wertheim and directed by Sheldon Larry.

In the story, two young people meet each other while waiting in line at an automated bank teller machine. It chronicles the development of their relationship, which is threatened by their own neuroses.

Playing office valentine may be risky business

NEW YORK—Playing the role of the office or shop valentine is risky business in this day and age of sexual harassment charges and law suits, warns a human resources management consultant.

The Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission has put a damper on romance in the workplace, particularly for those with the authority to promote and hire employees, says Andrew Sherwood, head of the New York-based firm of Goodrich & Sherwood.

He points out that EEOC guidelines, which have triggered many formal complaints and legal actions, primarily brought by females against males, state that "unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature constitute sexual harassment."

Sherwood acknowledges that guidelines and statutes will never discourage "boy-meets-girl" and "girl-meets-boy" situations and romance will continue to bloom in the office and factory. Even if such mutual relationships are not a violation of EEOC guidelines, they can cause other problems at work.

Such romances, he advises, should not be permitted to interfere with either party's job performance, disrupt the office or shop schedule and routine, or foster special favors or treatment for one of the parties if a supervisory relationship exists.

For the married employee work romances can be disastrous to personal life and career, even if handled discreetly, and should be avoided, Sherwood recommends.

He cites the case of a senior manager of an operation who had an affair with a staff manager of the opposite sex. When the affair became known, as they frequently do, it resulted in the loss of a job for the staff manager, placed a serious black mark on the senior manager's record and came close to breaking up two marriages.

So if you are or plan to be the office or shop valentine, proceed with extreme caution. Better yet, take a cold shower and forget it, Sherwood advises.

Benefits extended for some veterans

The Mississippi Regional Office of the U.S. Veterans Administration has notified officials in the University of Southern Mississippi Office of Veteran's Affairs of an extension in benefits for Korean and Vietnam era veterans.

Under the Emergency Veteran's Job Training Act of 1983, GI bill educational entitlements are currently being extended to qualifying veterans for associate degree programs which are 'predominantly vocational' in nature. The entitlement will be available for a two year period which began in November of 1983.

Veterans who are unskilled, underemployed or underemployed for six months prior to applying may qualify for on-the-job training supplements. According to a regional official, underemployment refers to part-time employment.

Cases will be reviewed on individual merit.

Vietnam era veterans only may qualify for supplements towards degree courses which are primarily vocational in nature.

Entitlements may be granted for VA-approved junior college degree programs, non-college degree program, high school programs, farm cooperative training and correspondence training.

GRAND MARSHAL—New Orleans Saints center John Hill will serve as grand marshal of the Mardi Gras Parade in Waveland Sunday, Feb. 26.

Edwards St. residents promised drainage help

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Waveland officials pledge to try to solve street and drainage problems in the Lizana Lane and Edwards Street area of the city.

Winnie Ladner and Rene Caldwell, both of Edwards Street, at a Tuesday night Waveland Board of Aldermen meeting, asked the officials to pave their street recently excavated by sewerage installations and take some action to drain standing water around homes in that area.

Ladner reported she has tried for five years to solve the drainage problem and noted Alderman Robert Hubbard and former Alderman Jack Toomey have offered some assistance.

Caldwell reported water stands for long periods of time along Edwards and causes frequent mosquito problems in the neighborhood.

Herman Yarborough, an alderman and city utility superintendent, reported the contractor who installed the sewerage did not 'dress up' the street as expected and clogged ditches along the nearby Seaboard System Railroad tracks will not allow proper drainage in that area.

"From Edwards Street back to Jeff Davis Avenue there's no provision for ditches. How we can divert the water, I don't know," he stated.

Longo said he and Yarborough would inspect the area and try to find a solution to the drainage problem.

He also reported paving projects are planned for streets in that area.

"We have to drain it before we can pave it. If we don't drain it, the blacktop won't stay," Longo stated.

"If we can't drain it east and west then maybe we can drain it north and south," he added.

In a related matter, Longo directed City Attorney Lucien Gex to contact a property owner on nearby St. Anthony Street to check into securing rights-of-way to pave the present dirt road.

Longo said he did not know the name of the property owner, since he lives out of town, but noted the city in the past has had to repeatedly cut down bamboo growing into the street from the lot.

Hubbard brought up the matter because he said the street needed to be improved soon.

The alderman and Longo said the present 15-foot easement for the street is not wide enough to dig drainage ditches which are necessary to pave the road.

Hubbard feared, based on prior confrontations with the landowner, that he would not cooperate with the city for the easement.

New indictments revealed from January Grand Jury

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
More names have been revealed in indictments handed down by the Hancock County Grand Jury in January.

As of yesterday, names of some 24 persons had been released in connection with the reported 37 indictments.

The identities of some persons indicted but not yet apprehended remain to be made public.

The newly-released indictments include:

—David Scaffidi of Bay St. Louis, charged with taking money under false pretense on Aug. 16, 1983.

—Hurley S. Ladner of Dedeaux, charged with the murder of Dale Raymond Paige of Harrison County on July 11, 1983.

—James L. Ferrell of Picayune, charged with grand larceny of tools in the Caesar community on Nov. 15, 1983. Kevin Ladner's name was released earlier on charges in the same incident.

—Stacey Lizana of Pass Christian, five counts of possession of a controlled substance on Aug. 3, 1982. Lizana was acquitted by a jury last July on a charge of possession with intent to distribute, and was reindicted on the possession charge in January.

Gerald Rucker of New Orleans, escape from the Hancock County Jail on Oct. 21, 1983, and burglary of a dwelling.

Jay Bee Cunningham of New Orleans, escape from the Hancock County Jail on Oct. 21, 1983.

Poll workers announced for Bay Council election

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Poll workers for the special Bay St. Louis City Council Ward 1 election Saturday were announced Tuesday by the Bay St. Louis Election Commission.

The workers selected are Dorothy Heitkamp, Anna B. Ash, George Hammer and Addison L. Bounds, all managers, and Charles Heitkamp, balliff.

Election Commission Members Conrad Mauffray, Carl Arnold and Charles F. Gottschalk met Jan. 25 to organize the commission and discuss the status of the special Feb. 11 election.

They met again Feb. 1 to certify candidates and authorize printing of the ballots.

The commissioners were appointed last month by the Bay City Council to a term running through June of 1985.

Voters Saturday will have a choice between Gary F. Griffin, a coach and teacher, and William P. Hilliker, retiree from a management career.

The polls at the Garden Center on Leonhard Ave. will open at 7 a.m. and close at 6 p.m.

Absentee ballots may be cast at the city clerk's office at City Hall until noon tomorrow.

Supervisors take no action on more airpark expansion

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Port and Harbor Commission plans to further develop the industrial airport at Stennis International Airport were thwarted Monday when the Hancock Board of Supervisors failed to approve commission plans.

Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner's motion to authorize the commission to apply for additional matching funds died for lack of a second.

The commission voted unanimously on Jan. 26 to apply to the Economic Development Administration for matching funds to supplement a Community Development Block Grant and to resurface the airport access roadway, install drainage for the roadway and acquire 169 additional acres adjacent to the airport.

The $500,140 CDBG grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, with a $502,710 match from county funds, was awarded in early December, 1983.

The Port and Harbor Commission hoped to receive an additional $780,000 from EDA, and to complete the $1.5 million project with commission money.

Commission Director James C. DeBlanc said EDA cannot participate in the original project covered by the CDBG grant, but could participate in improvement plans were expanded and additional acreage was acquired.

"The chances for EDA participation looked very good," DeBlanc said.

At its Jan. 27 meeting the supervisors took the commission proposal under advisement.

On Jan. 30 the commission and supervisors held a joint meeting, at least two hours of which were spent in closed executive session.

Monday Curtis Johnson, president of Mississippi Pumping Service Inc., told the board that he had talked to Port and Harbor Commissioners "numerous times" about purchasing property at the airport and at Port Bienville Industrial Park.

"I have had less than satisfactory results," he complained.

Johnson said he receives five to seven calls every week from people looking for jobs.

"They keep talking about jobs," he said. "I don't see but a few 'fat cats' out there who have jobs."

Johnson said several weeks ago he offered $2,500 an acre for the 54.8 acres of the site formerly occupied by Gonzales Marine Enterprise Inc., then agreed to pay $3,500 per acre at the commission's suggestion.

"Then they said how about taking 80 acres, 30 of it wetlands, and I said okay."

"Then they said send a letter, and I had a letter brought. Then they had a meeting and said no, we think the 54.8 acres is worth $400,000 plus and we need a proposal from you."

"Nobody cares whether anybody has a job," Johnson said. "They want to appropriate money to buy more money."

"They don't need additional acreage if they can't get industry out there."

"I just don't understand what's going on," he said.

Board President A.A. (Dolph) Kellar suggested that the supervisors meet with Johnson and commission members to resolve Johnson's problems.

"I don't know what the problem is," he said.

The supervisors agreed that job opportunities are needed and said they all receive calls regularly inquiring about jobs.

"I'm not too happy with some of the things in this application," Kellar said.

"At the same time, if the county can get to the point where they just have to put up $250,000 I would hate to vote against it and spend $500,000 of construction money if we can get a grant and spend half the money."

"I'm not against grants," Supervisor Bert Courge said. "But I'm against spending money, regardless of the source, for additional acreage and overlaying the road."

"I know the CDBG grant has been approved, but if we can't get the match, I suggest we let it go back," he added.

DeBlanc said Wednesday that the former Gonzales site was appraised by J. Ed Turner Appraisal Co. of Hattiesburg at $7,500 per acre, with buildings valued at $66,000.

He said the commission offered 80 acres to Johnson for $411,000, which amounts to $5,137.50 per acre with no additional cost for the buildings, docks or other improvements.

"Johnson is concerned that the Port and Harbor Commission is in the real estate business and not in the business of jobs," DeBlanc said.

"The prices we quote to industry are less than residential lots sell for in Waveland and Bay St. Louis because we're trying to attract industry to provide jobs."

Johnson can't buy a site in Waveland or Bay St. Louis for $2,500 or $3,500 per acre, he asserted.

"As far as building projects at the airport are concerned," DeBlanc said, "when applications are made to FAA for improvements and FAA participates 90 percent, why shouldn't we go for building projects?"

DeBlanc said he would welcome the joint meeting suggested by the supervisors.

Also Monday, the supervisors discussed problems with open dumps at Necaise Crossing, Standard and Pearlington with Michael Bradshaw from the State Bureau of Pollution Control office in Ocean Springs.

All three dumps are on Section 16 lands and the Bureau of Pollution Control gave notice in 1981 that the dumps should be closed.

A phased plan to close the Pearlington dump was established by the Hancock County School District, but the plan was never implemented.

The dump has been operating under the auspices of the Board of Supervisors, and Kellar is now paying $500 a month plus labor 30 days monthly for maintenance work.

But as property landowner the school district faces a sizable penalty for non-compliance with Environmental Protection Agency standards.

Bradshaw proposes that the Pearlington dump be fenced off, that eight cubic-yard dumpsters be installed and that industry and haulers either pay a fee to dump or be required to use the landfill at Kiln.

He said the other two dumps could be left open at present to see how proposed changes at Pearlington work out.

Paul Montjoy, commercial hauler, told the supervisors the dumpsters would cost about $580 each.

He said he could make pickups at the dump for $1 per yard.

The dumpsters, Montjoy said, should last about ten years with proper care.

The supervisors took no action on Bradshaw's recommendations, but at Monday's school board meeting the Hancock County School District trustees agreed that Superintendent

Terrell Randolph should prepare a proposed agreement to lease the Section 16 land at Pearlington to the supervisors for a yet-to-be-determined amount.

Randolph said the land will have to be surveyed and appraised before a lease is negotiated.

Also, he said, the land will have to be reclassified from 'forestry' to 'other land.'

In another matter, Clifford Lizana from the board's cemetery committee asked the supervisors to adopt guidelines to regulate Rotten Bayou Cemetery near the Fenton community.

The problem with both residents and non-residents staking out and fencing large areas of the cemetery for future use is continuing, he said.

"We have people coming in and fencing off plots big enough for ten families," he said.

"I think the county as a whole owns the cemetery and I don't think it should be under one supervisor in one beat," he said. "It should be countywide."

The supervisors asked Lizana's committee to draft proposed bylaws governing all county cemeteries for the board's consideration and review.

In other business the supervisors: Endorsed, at Assistant District Attorney J.P. Compretta's request made on District Attorney Cono Caranna's behalf, a bill asking the State Legislature to approve three assistant district attorneys for the district; Compretta said there would be no additional cost to Hancock County.

—Accepted the low bid of John Knight for about 400 cubic yards of pea gravel and sand for McCloud Park at $3.95 per yard.

—Rescinded an earlier resolution authorizing Ernst and Whinney to complete the economic feasibility study in connection with construction of a new Hancock General Hospital, and authorized Arthur Young and Co. to do the study.

Designated Feb. 26 to March 3 as Rev. Johnson Week in honor of Rev. Charles Johnson, who is retiring from Christ Episcopal Church.

Voted to abandon, at the request of property owners Terry M. Ladner and Grace A. Orte, property in Gulfview Subdivision including Ohio Street, Ann Street, Featherston Avenue and some unnamed alleys in the area.

'Arbor Day' gives free trees to new members

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving three free Black Walnut trees to new Foundation members joining during February, 1984.

The free trees are part of the Foundation's effort to promote tree planting throughout America.

Black Walnut trees were chosen for this campaign because of their value and versatility, according to the Foundation.

The Walnut trees bear sweet, edible nuts, and they are also used for shade trees, growing to 80-100 feet. Walnut hardwood is very valuable for making furniture and cabinets.

The National Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is working to improve the quality of life throughout the country by encouraging tree planting. The Foundation will give three Black Walnut trees to new members contributing $10 during February.

The trees will be two to three feet tall and will be sent postage paid with enclosed planting instructions at the right time for planting this spring.

The Foundation makes its spring shipments between Feb. 1 and May 31, depending on the local climate and this year's weather. The trees are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free by the Foundation.

To become a member of the Foundation, and to receive the free trees, a $10 membership contribution should be sent to: Free Walnut Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, NE 68410, by Feb. 29.

END OF POLICE CHASE—A police chase that began in Long Beach about 2 a.m. Saturday and involved police officers from Long Beach, Bay St. Louis and Waveland ended when the driver lost control of his vehicle on St. Joseph Street in Waveland, left the road and struck a culvert and utility pole. Police Captain Ron Schauer of Long Beach said Charles Jones, 23, of 82 Holly Circle in Gulfport led police on a race that at times exceeded 100 m.p.h. and began in Long Beach on US-90 near the Ramada Inn. In Bay St. Louis, Jones eluded road blocks at US-90 and Beach Boulevard and at US-90 and Dunbar Avenue in Waveland. He was hospitalized in Hancock General Hospital complaining of abdominal pain and suffering from facial fractures and lacerations. Schauer said Jones faces charges by Long Beach, Bay St. Louis and Waveland authorities including improper and expired license tags, no driver's license, speeding, failure to yield to blue lights and siren, improper lane usage, running red lights, reckless driving, driving under the influence, destroying city property and destroying private property. County Agent's Notes

By Lee Taylor

The first cattlemen's meeting for 1984 was held last Thursday night and was really a success. Some 60 producers and guests attended the meeting at the Kline VFW.

Our program was presented by Anchor Chemical Corporation with George Smith representing the organization. Brad Lyons of Lyons Livestock Supply sponsored our meal.

A project was begun at the meeting to organize a County Cowbelles Association and Darlene Underwood, home economist for Hancock County, is coordinator.

Officers were elected for the Hancock County Cattlemen's Association as follows: President, Paul Harris; Vice President, John Smith; Secretary-Treasurer, Lee Taylor, County Agent.

Another meeting of the Hancock County Cattlemen's Association is planned for March but you should pay your 1984 dues as soon as possible. The deadline for registering for the Cattlemen's Convention is Feb. 3.

Prune Plants Now

The winter season is a good time to prune plants before growth starts in the spring. The first pruning helps to bring into balance the top of the plant and root system. It also stimulates lateral bud development from which you can later select good scaffold branches.

When pruning, cut off only enough branches to accomplish a definite purpose. A main purpose of pruning young, non-bearing trees is to shape the tree so that scaffold branches will be well distributed.

You might also prune plants to control the size, improve the shape and train plants, remove dead, diseased, or abnormal plant tissue or to help in transplanting.

If you select scaffold branches properly, you can eliminate weak, narrow crotches and avoid future breakage under heavy fruit loads. Proper selection of young scaffold branches will also reduce the large pruning cuts in future years. This reduces the entrance of insects and decay organisms through pruning wounds.

TRANSPLANTING TREES

These winter months are a perfect time for Hancock Countians to transplant trees. Deciduous trees are usually dormant until March. Transplanting involves moving trees that are already established in one location to another.

When removing the chosen tree from its original environment, be sure to get enough of the root system so the tree will survive when transplanted.

A good rule of thumb is to have the root ball correspond with the above ground portion of the tree. The size of the dirt and roots should equal the diameter of the branches of the tree.

Once you have dug the root ball, place the dirt and roots in a bucket or burlap bag to prevent the roots from becoming too dry.

When replanting the tree, dig a larger, deeper hole so much or sawdust can be added to allow roots to expand and develop. Cover the top of the area with a peat moss top soil mixture and water the tree well.

During the first year after transplanting, water the tree frequently, especially in dry spells. You may also wish to anchor the tree against wind damage. Before you actually transplant the tree, consider your yard, home and power lines. Then anticipate the size of the tree in the future.

Select appropriate trees that will compliment your home.

Avoid planting shallow-rooted trees, such as cottonwood, near sidewalks or pipelines.

ASCS

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block said that during the January-March quarter, dairy producers who participate in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's new milk diversion program need only reduce their marketings by half the amount specified under their contracts and still receive a $10 per hundredweight incentive payment.

However, Block said, producers still must cut marketings by at least five percent of their established base production for the quarter to receive any payment.

For example, Block said, a producer who signs a contract with USDA to reduce milk marketings 20 percent during each of the five quarterly periods of the program could agree to reduce marketings by only 10 percent during the first quarter and receive a payment for that 10 percent.

Producers who have already signed contracts can modify them by contacting the county office of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Block said the difference in the amount of the reduction will be evenly distributed over the following four quarters of the program.

Block said farmers needed this extra flexibility at the beginning of the new program to better plan their milk marketings and to help forestall cash flow problems that could make it difficult for some producers to meet existing financial commitments.

Block also said USDA will not change the total percentage reductions specified in the diversion contracts based on hardship to livestock producers.

There may be some adjustment between quarters.

However, he said, USDA will not require any quarterly modification that would compel producers to lower their milk marketings by more than 150 percent of the reduction specified in their contracts for that quarter.

If USDA determines a hardship still exists, Block said, the department will use other existing authorities to lessen the hardship.

Casual means comfortable in spring-summer wear

By Beth Duncan
Extension Clothing
Specialist

Stylewise, relaxing will never be more comfortable, colorful and exciting for American men in spring and summer of 1984.

According to the Men's Fashion Association of America, designers and manufacturers have created casual, leisure and sports apparel that is more in keeping with the things men want to do in the warm weather and the way they want to look.

Relaxed and relaxing is the feeling of a group of lightly constructed or unconstructed jackets in many styles which may be worn to top off slacks.

The jackets are made of interesting patterns in a wide variety of fabrics, chiefly linen, linen looks and tweed effects.

The collection of boldly patterned sweaters, incidentally now worn 'year round', is outstanding. Light in weight, chiefly in cardigan or pullovers in crewnecks and boatnecks, the new season sweaters are brilliantly colored or tempered with soft shades. Many will be worn without shirts, teaming handsomely with new slacks and shorts knitted, of course, of 100 percent cotton yarns.

Big, oversized shirts are a big fashion story styled with ring necks, boatnecks, banded collars, and button-down collars in woven and knitted fabrics. Patterns emphasizing stripes and solids range from soft to bright colors. The big shirts will be worn with the longer walking shorts and slacks popular for the new season.

Polo shirts, one of the oldest of sportswear styles, are back as one of the hottest fashion items for spring and summer. The newest in deep, rich dark tones will be offered in horizontal and vertical stripes.

'Sweats' are number one in activewear. This category of male fashions includes classic sweatshirts, vests, pull-on pants, and shorts, rubys, cotton knits and cotton-blends.

The vast array of styles, colorings and patterns that will debut in the spring of 1984 serves to emphasize the growing importance of sports and casual-wear in the average man's wardrobe. According to the Men's Fashion Association of America the surge of this fashion phenomenon the second half of the Twentieth Century will go on and on.

Summer food service program

The State Department of Education recently announced the operation of the 1984 Summer Food Service Program for Children in Mississippi, to be administered through the department's Child Nutrition Program Office.

The summer food program provides nutritious meals to children in needy areas during extended school vacation periods. In most areas, the program operates during June, July, and August. Under the program, meals and snacks are served to children in such places as schools, playgrounds and parks.

Public or private nonprofit schools and units of local, municipal, county or state governments may qualify as sponsors of the Summer Food Program in areas where at least 50 percent of the children are eligible for free or reduced price school lunches.

Residential summer camps whose enrollment includes needy children may also act as program sponsors.

Sponsors will earn reimbursement for program and administrative cost based on the number of meals served times the reimbursement rates for each meal type or the actual cost of the meals, whichever is less.

To qualify for the summer food service program, a sponsor must meet certain requirements. The principal eligibility requirements, including but not limited to the following:

— Accept final financial and administrative responsibility for the total program operation.

— Provide a regularly scheduled food service.

— Serve meals that meet USDA nutritional requirements.

— Maintain adequate supervisory and operational personnel for overall monitoring and management.

Applicants for the program will be given equal consideration without regard to race, color, sex, creed or national origin.

Food service management companies which plan to act as vendors for the program must register with the state on or before March 15.

Regulations require that companies providing food for the summer food program must be reputable and able to meet the terms of their contracts.

In addition, under USDA's rules, food service management companies must provide states, at the time of registration, with detailed information on their operation for the past two years.

Potential sponsors and companies wanting information on the summer food program or applications for registration in Mississippi should contact John H. Walker, Administration & Finance, Mississippi Department of Education, P. O. Box 771, Jackson, 39206, telephone (601) 352-8480.

Bay Area Soccer Spring season to open Saturday

In soccer action over the weekend SportsWorld hosted SMSC under 16 girls on Saturday, and Bay-Waveland Tire hosted Long Beach in an Under 14 game on Sunday.

In the Saturday game it started to look like SportsWorld would have an easy time as Krissy Erickson scored within the first three minutes for the home team. But SMSC came back to tie the game once, and then again after Julie Guintard had scored.

Then SMSC went ahead 3-2 until Shannon O'Brien kicked in the equalizer as the whistle blew to end the first half.

In the second half Andre Ambrose scored the winning goal and Melissa Duncan clinched the win with a 35 yard goal which went over the outstretched fingertips of the SMSC goalkeeper.

However, it was the defensive play of Michelle Reynolds, Amy Fayard, Alicen Schwabacher, Melissa Duncan and goalkeeper Dana Wheeler that turned the tide as SMSC was bottled up in its own end most of the half. The final score was 5-3.

On Sunday the visitors from Long Beach scored first with two quick goals midway through the first half. However, Richie Gleber got the home team on the scoreboard just before halftime to cut the deficit to 2-1. In the beginning of the second half Bay-Waveland Tire came out strong and took the lead on goals by Chris Ladner and Jimmy Strong, only to have Long Beach come back to tie the game. The game was finally decided 4-3 on a goal by John Favre with less than four minutes remaining.

This Saturday the regular Spring season begins for all age groups

TENSE NECK MUSCLES

Dr. Wm. L. POWELL

Tense neck muscles brought this patient to our clinic with a curious array of painful symptoms. The neck muscles were stiff and painful him upon movement causing the top of his head to hurt and an elevated blood pressure. Conditions of this nature are caused for the most part by displaced spinal bones which irritate delicate nerve fibers. The response is excellent under Chiropractic care. A spinal analysis and x-rays gave evidence of spinal bone slippage and scientific application of Chiropractic adjustments brought quick relief, and in time, correction to this person's life now is always sending this friends to us so that we may fix them up.

World's Fair expected to boost Mississippi crawfish sales

By Jimmy Bonner
Mississippi
Cooperative
Extension Service

Officials of the state's fledgling crawfish industry are banking on help in marketing crawfish this summer from an unusual source — 1984 World's Fair.

The officials are counting on increased demand from thousands of tourists during the World's Fair this summer in New Orleans to take pressure off Mississippi's own crawfish growers.

That pressure has been brought to the state's crawfish producers by still competition from Louisiana growers, who have over-produced and now are active in promoting their surplus crawfish in Mississippi.

More than half of the state's estimated 40 crawfish growers were on hand Jan. 17 in Jackson to look into ways to improve their production and marketing while boosting profits in raising crawfish.

Gene Clements of Greenville, president of the newly formed Mississippi Crawfish Growers Association and one of the state's largest crawfish growers, said the World's Fair in New Orleans should help Mississippi crawfish growers.

"The World's Fair should consume a larger portion of Louisiana crawfish," Clements said. "These are crawfish that could work their way into Mississippi markets."

Louisiana produces more than 90,000 acres of crawfish, compared to about 1,000 acres in Mississippi.

Competition to Mississippi producers has been particularly keen in the last two years because of high production in the crawfish-rich Atchafalaya Basin in south Louisiana.

Officials say good crawfish production in the basin normally occurs only two years in five, but high production in both 1982 and 1983 brought lower prices to Mississippi growers.

Crawfish prices in Mississippi without the competition from Louisiana crawfish average about 90 cents per pound. In periods of heavy competition from Louisiana, prices may drop to 45 cents per pound.

Clements said crawfish in the Atchafalaya Basin can be produced much cheaper than in Mississippi because growers have only to harvest the crawfish when the area floods and therefore have no management costs.

He described the first half of 1983 as a banner year for Mississippi crawfish growers that became a matter of survival in the second half when competition from Louisiana grew.

Dr. Thom Wellborn, head of the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service Wildlife and Fisheries Department, said one way Mississippi producers can relieve the problem is to look for new markets.

"Since we won't be able to sell our crawfish in Louisiana, we need to be working on markets north of us where the Louisiana growers aren't looking," Wellborn said.

Wellborn said the crawfish industry has the potential to become its own enterprise in Mississippi, but growers must decide if they want to go that route or use crawfish as supplemental income as is often the case in many operations.

Officials also say one of the most pressing needs among Mississippi crawfish producers is more research geared toward the state's own unique production capabilities and limitations.

"Producers must have information built around their own production," Clements said. "We can't depend on production information from other areas that may not fit our production."

Clements said most research used by Mississippi producers comes from Louisiana, where different water, soils and temperatures heavily impact crawfish production.

Research on crawfish production soon will be under way at the Delta Branch Experiment Station in Stoneville, where a research unit has been built to study crawfish production.

Although crawfish occur naturally in Mississippi, they need basic requirements to produce profitably in domestic production, said Dr. Tom Schwedler, area Extension wildlife and fisheries specialist in Stoneville.

Schwedler said for crawfish to thrive they need adequate stock for breeding, adequate space, the proper environment, including both wet and dry periods to promote reproduction, and adequate food supplies.

"Whether a farmer can make money raising crawfish depends largely on the amount of money required to create this favorable environment for the crawfish to grow in," he said.

While crawfish feed on a variety of plant and animal matter, most growers raise crawfish by feeding rice straw, hay or other vegetable matter that produces high production.

Schwedler said some 300 species of fresh water crawfish exist worldwide, and about 30 of these grow in Mississippi. Although most crawfish weigh only a few ounces, some monsters have reached eight pounds.

In Mississippi, most if not all crawfish are grown in ponds in about 18 inches of water. Crawfish grow best in water temperatures of 80 to 85° F and reach marketable size in 60 to 90 days in favorable conditions.

Growing crawfish economically also depends on the farmer's ability to control many factors peculiar to crawfish production.

Growing Child

NINE TIPS FOR HANDLING SIBLING FIGHTS

Almost all siblings fight at some time or other during their growing up years. Here are some tips from Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter, about how to handle such disputes.

• Teach by your example. The ways you settle your own disagreements — with your children or with other adults — will show your children how to settle their own, no matter what you say.

• Be fair. If you must punish your children for fighting, make your punishment fit the crime, and avoid taking sides. Don't punish either of them so harshly that you cause them to feel even angrier at each other and at you. And remember that there is seldom only one person at fault in an argument.

• Remember the Golden Rule. Try to put yourself in each child's shoes before you judge behavior. Try to remember your own childhood and how you felt when your parents stepped into your fights. Treat your child as you would have liked to have been treated yourself in that situation.

• Discipline with kindness and respect. Let your children know that you don't like and will not allow certain behaviors. But don't make them feel they are bad people when they make mistakes. Avoid name-calling. Labels such as clumsy, stupid, careless can become self-fulfilling prophecies. If you do slip in anger, apologize to your child later and explain that you don't really feel that way about her.

• Accent the positive. Pay attention to the things each of your children does well and to their interactions that are cooperative and constructive. They will tend to repeat these behaviors since they earned your attention.

• Minimize the negative. Whenever possible avoid pointing out your children's "faults" and mistakes, especially in comparison to siblings. Also, unless they're hurting each other, ignore your children's petty disputes with each other. They may decrease simply from lack of attention from you. Remember, if you want to see a behavior repeated, pay attention to it. If you don't want to see a behavior again, ignore it.

• Explain your expectations. Let your children know what responsibilities you expect them to assume; what the limits are on each of them; what behaviors you will not tolerate; and what they can expect if they don't meet these expectations.

• Be consistent in your response to your children's behaviors. There are days when their arguing doesn't bother you and you ignore it. Other days it will be the "last straw," and you might blow up. Still, if you try to respond in a way that is predictable, you will find you have much calmer, less anxious children since they know what to expect.

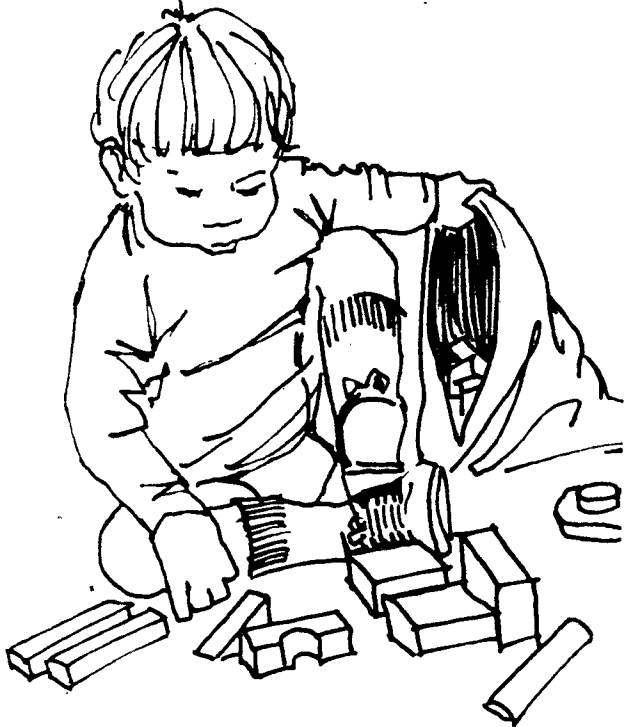

• Cultivate patience. Patience and a sense of humor are two of the most important qualities you can cultivate as a parent. Try to be patient with your children's bickering. Even though you may think the things they're squabbling about are silly, they're important to them. And when your patience wears thin, try to find some humor in the situation. Before you know it, your children will be grown and the lessons they learn now about how to get along with others, particularly siblings, will be carried into their own families.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For more information and a free sample newsletter, write to Growing Child, P. O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902.

Include child's birthdate when writing.

There's no cure for color-blindness

Only a very few people are completely color blind — that is, seeing everything in just black and white.

The most common color deficiency is red-color blindness, according to 'Growing Child,' a monthly child development newsletter. It affects about one out of every 20 boys but only about one out of every 200 girls.

In red-green color blindness, a person has difficulty telling the difference between green and red.

Red and orange may appear as only slightly different shades from green. Sometimes a difference in brightness will be seen, or green and yellow will look very similar to red.

But blues are usually easy to distinguish from each other and from reds and greens.

If a child, especially a boy, tends to confuse reds and green with each other but not blues and yellows, he may very well have a red-green color deficiency, particularly if there are cases of color blindness on his mother's side of the family.

To test a child's color discrimination, gather a number of small objects having the colors red, green and blue. Then ask the child to put objects together in the same pile if they have the same color.

You may have to give the child two things to begin with and ask him if they are the same color. Place them together or separately according to his answer, then ask if a third object is the same color as one of the piles.

Continue in this way until all the objects have been sorted. If the child clearly makes three different piles, his color vision is probably normal, even if he has difficulty remembering the names of colors or using them correctly.

If he makes only two piles or has three or more piles of mixed colors, he may have some degree of color blindness.

An optometrist or ophthalmologist can make a more complete diagnosis.

If a child is color blind, what then?

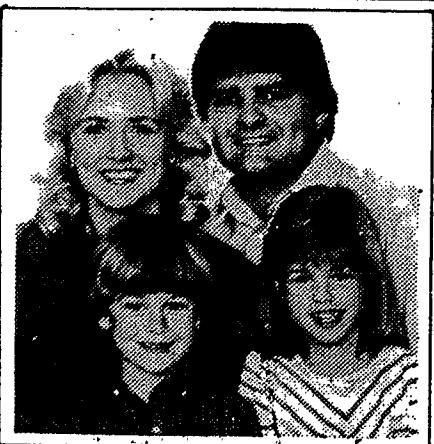

Unfortunately, there is no treatment or cure for color blindness. It is just something that has to be lived with.

Simply being aware of the fact of color-blindness can save some frustration when a child shows confusion of colors he would normally be expected to know.

If his teacher knows about the color difficulty she will be able to make allowances for him during color activities.

In adulthood, it will be best for a color-blind person to avoid occupations involving electricity or electronics, where color-coded wires could be confused. Fortunately, occupations that require good color discrimination are fairly few.

The Sea Coast Echo

Book Review

A forthcoming major book on the history of the Mississippi Coast is structured to include the role of businesses and institutions in the colorful lore of the coastal region. Both private and public concerns which support the publishing project will have text devoted to their own unique backgrounds.

The book, 'The Mississippi Gulf Coast,' is the realization of some two years' painstaking research and creativity under the sponsorship of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Historical and Genealogical Society. Publication is set for later this year.

Author Charles Sullivan of Perkinston senses that the book is, at its heart, the story of coastal Mississippians revealed by "how they worked, lived, laughed, and cried." The compelling subtitle is "Portrait of a People."

Over 200 striking historical photographs are correlated to the text. Murella Powell of Biloxi has chosen the art work from the rich stores of many private collections and library holdings.

President of the Historical and Genealogical Society as well as historical librarian of Biloxi, Powell believes that well over half of the photos will be appearing for the first time in the public domain. Business—the way in which coastal Mississippians scratched and clawed for their living—is at the very heart of this story. Commerce is vital to the revelation of how this special breed took its means from what the region offered. First and always it was from the sea, and then it expanded to include the giant pines of the woods.

Sullivan, in the arduous gathering and sorting of the records of centuries, says with confidence that he has "gutted every archive." The recounting of the events of the Mississippi panhandle has "never before been done in this way."

Murella Powell observes that the book works to "destroy some of the myths and tell the true story." Sullivan says in corroboration that it is "the flavor of what happened through the eyes of the people."

The history embraces the southern tier—the six counties that lie south of the natural barrier at 31° north latitude. In a more elegant description, Sullivan muses that he was written about those people who have made their world in the land "between the Pearl and the Pascagoula."

The back section of the book is devoted to "Partners in Progress." It presents historical context and photos of coastal companies and organizations who make the publication possible. The Historical and Genealogical Society plans to devote revenues from the book to furthering research and publishing.

By Ann O. Rushing
Extension Marketing Specialist

Today, many people are concerned about salt.

The Dietary Guidelines of the Senate Select Committee suggest that Americans might be healthier if we reduce our salt consumption. Presently, the average intake of salt (sodium chloride) is six to 18 grams per day. Where do we get this salt? Mostly from the salt shaker on the table, or the one near the kitchen range. We also get salt from cured meats, salty snacks, pickled foods and prepared foods. We use salt as a seasoning and a flavor enhancer, and in some instances for preservation of foods.

Six grams of sodium chloride is about three-fourths of a teaspoon; 18 grams is just about two and one-quarter teaspoons. Could we live with a smaller amount of salt? Sure. Lots of people do. Do we need any salt at all? Possibly not, although it does take some time getting used to food without salt added.

Sodium, on the other hand, is another matter. Sodium is a component of salt (sodium chloride) comprising about 40 percent by weight of flavor enhancer. A gram of salt (one-eighth teaspoon) provides four-tenths grams or 400 milligrams of sodium. Our six to 18 grams of salt provides us with anywhere between 2,400 and 7,200 milligrams of sodium per day.

We get sodium from all the places we get salt, as well as from milk and cheese products, some vegetables, some additives (such as monosodium glutamate, sodium benzoate, sodium propionate, baking powder), eggs, meat, fish and poultry. In general, foods of animal origin are higher in sodium than foods of plant origin. So we get sodium even without the aid of the salt shaker.

Do we need sodium at all? Yes. Sodium is necessary in maintaining a normal acid-base balance within the body, and a normal water balance within the cell.

Sodium is also necessary for normal transmission of nerve impulses, for the absorption of glucose, and in the transport of nutrients across membranes.

No requirement for sodium has been set, but intake usually far exceeds need. We have taught ourselves to like the taste of salt, and when we cut down on salt, whether voluntarily or on a physician's orders, some "taste reduction" must take place. In addition to reading labels and avoiding foods with sodium components, you must become aware of foods high in sodium or salt, and start to use spices and herbs as flavor enhancers.

Plant origin foods tend to be much lower in sodium than animal origin foods. Salt substitutes are available for adding flavor to foods without excess salt. Read the label and compare prices before choosing. Labels that make specific claims such as "low in sodium" must show the sodium content on the label.

Even when the amount of sodium is not on the label, remember that the ingredients are listed according to their weight in the product's recipe—from most to least. Learn to recognize ingredients that contain sodium. Salt, soy sauce, salt brine and any ingredient with sodium (such as monosodium glutamate) or soda (such as baking soda) as part of its name contain sodium.

Some companies don't list sodium information on their product labels, but do provide nutrition information to customers who write for it. Look for the firm's address on the label.

Plan meals that contain less sodium. Remember that unprocessed foods usually contain less sodium than processed foods. When starting from scratch, the individual is in charge of the amount of salt you add.

Reduce the salt added to foods during cooking. Start with moderate changes, and cut back on the taste for salt gradually. Try gradually reducing the amount of salt in favorite recipes. Look for recipes with a reduced sodium content. Cut back or even cut out the salt used in cooking rice, noodles, pasta, or hot cereals.

Look for condiments and sauces with less sodium, or use lemon juice, spices, or herbs—such as onion or garlic powder, paprika, pepper, curry or dill—for flavor. Make relishes and salad dressings, cutting back on the salt.

IN THE CHANCERY COURT HANCOCK COUNTY BAY ST. LOUIS MISSISSIPPI 39520

TO: UNKNOWN HEIRS AT LAW OF ANTHONY JOSEPH MASCARI, SR., DECEASED AND FLORENCE RITA MASCARI, DECEASED, whose present residence and address is unknown. You have been made Defendant in the lawsuit filed in this Court by Thomas J. Mascari, Plaintiff, whose address is c/o Cornelius J. Ladner, P. O. Box 412, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 39520.

The Complaint filed against you has initiated a civil action alleging that Thomas J. Mascari and Anthony Joseph Mascari, Jr. are the sole and only heirs at law of Anthony Joseph Mascari, Sr., and Florence Rita Mascari and seeking legal adjudication of the heirs.

You are required to mail or hand deliver a copy of a written Answer either admitting or denying each allegation in the Complaint to Cornelius J. Ladner, Plaintiff's Attorney, whose address is P. O. Box 412, 124 Main St., Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 39520.

IF YOUR ANSWER IS NOT SO MAILED OR DELIVERED, A JUDGEMENT BY DEFAULT MAY BE ENTERED AGAINST YOU FOR THE MONEY OR OTHER RELIEF DEMAND IN THE COMPLAINT.

You must also file the original of your Answer with the Clerk of this Court within a reasonable time after the date of this publication, and file a copy of your Answer with the Clerk of this Court on or before the date of the first publication of this summons.

Witness my signature and official seal this 8th day of February, 1984.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR COASTAL WETLANDS PERMIT AND WATER QUALITY CERTIFICATION

Mr. Terry Ladner has filed an application with the Bureau of Marine Resources requesting permission to conduct regulated activities under the provisions of the Coastal Wetlands Protection Law, Chapter 27, Mississippi Code of 1972.

The applicant is requesting permission to perform dredging operations to widen existing canals and to excavate a new canal for additional docking space at an existing marina facility at Bayou Caddy, Hancock County, MS. In compliance with Section 401 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1251, 1341), as amended by PL 95-217, Mr. Ladner requested certification from the Bureau of Pollution Control that the above mentioned activity will be in compliance with applicable provisions of Section 301 (33 U.S.C. 1311), Section 302 (33 U.S.C. 1312), Section 303 (33 U.S.C. 1313), Section 306 (33 U.S.C. 1316), and Section 307 (33 U.S.C. 1317) of the Act and appropriate requirements of the State Law.

Any person wishing to make comments or objections to the proposed regulated activity must submit those comments in writing to the Bureau of Marine Resources at P. O. Drawer 569, Long Beach, Mississippi 39560 and the Bureau of Pollution Control, P. O. Box 10355, Jackson, Mississippi 39206 before 1:00 p.m. on the 1st day of March, 1984.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR COASTAL WETLANDS PERMIT AND WATER QUALITY CERTIFICATION

Mr. K. L. Huger has filed an application with the Bureau of Marine Resources requesting permission to conduct regulated activities under the provisions of the Coastal Wetlands Protection Law, Chapter 27, Mississippi Code of 1972.

The applicant is requesting permission to excavate a boulder pit and to construct a pier on Rotten Bayou, Hancock County, MS. In compliance with Section 401 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1251, 1341), as amended by PL 95-217, Mr. Huger requested certification from the Bureau of Pollution Control that the above mentioned activity will be in compliance with applicable provisions of Section 301 (33 U.S.C. 1311), Section 302 (33 U.S.C. 1312), Section 303 (33 U.S.C. 1313), Section 306 (33 U.S.C. 1316), and Section 307 (33 U.S.C. 1317) of the Act and appropriate requirements of the State Law.

Any person wishing to make comments or objections to the proposed regulated activity must submit those comments in writing to the Bureau of Marine Resources at P. O. Drawer 569, Long Beach, Mississippi 39560 and the Bureau of Pollution Control, P. O. Box 10355, Jackson, Mississippi 39206 before 1:00 p.m. on the 1st day of March, 1984.

Bay educators impressed with student progress in computer program

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District educators involved in an elementary level computer program are impressed by the academic progress of students utilizing this instructional tool.

Betty Ann Jones, Chapter One supervisor for the school district, reports that students participating in the program at Waveland and North Bay Elementary Schools on an average are learning more every month than ever before with the new computer system.

She notes the Chapter One program involves elementary students who are functioning below their grade level in mathematics and/or reading.

Children eligible for Chapter One instruction and the new program titled 'Computer Assisted Instruction' are in grades one through five for mathematics and grades four and five for reading, Jones explains.

She reports the Bay district is one of 10 in Mississippi with the CAI program. The computer system utilizes a 'mini-computer' at Waveland Elementary which works with six terminals there and through a telephone line connection serves nine terminals at North Bay, Jones says.

Both schools have a printout device which reproduces individualized homework exercises for students, she reports.

The computer system is utilized by 222 North Bay students and 141 Waveland Elementary youths for one or two subjects.

Jones says the computer, affectionately named Fred, is capable of serving 96 terminals.

The computer terminals resemble television screens housed with a typewriter-style keyboard.

Written exercises are displayed on the screen as well as answers entered by students on the keyboard.

Jones reports the computer system allows highly specialized instruction with two teacher aides and a teacher.

Such instruction could only be provided by a large staff of instructors, she says.

"It would be impossible to do the type of student evaluation we're able to do here with the computer," Jones states.

She explains the computer can provide either a daily or weekly detailed analysis of individual student performance in a matter of minutes which previously could only be determined at the end of the school year.

Lynn Parrish, computer program teacher for both schools, reports, "I know a child may have a learning problem and with the computer I can immediately pinpoint the problem and quickly make a worksheet for the student."

Jones says the computer is also giving classroom teachers weekly reports on a Chapter One student's progress when previously this was not possible to provide.

James Baldree, Waveland Elementary principal, states, "This system does not replace the classroom teacher, but it's a valuable instructional tool."

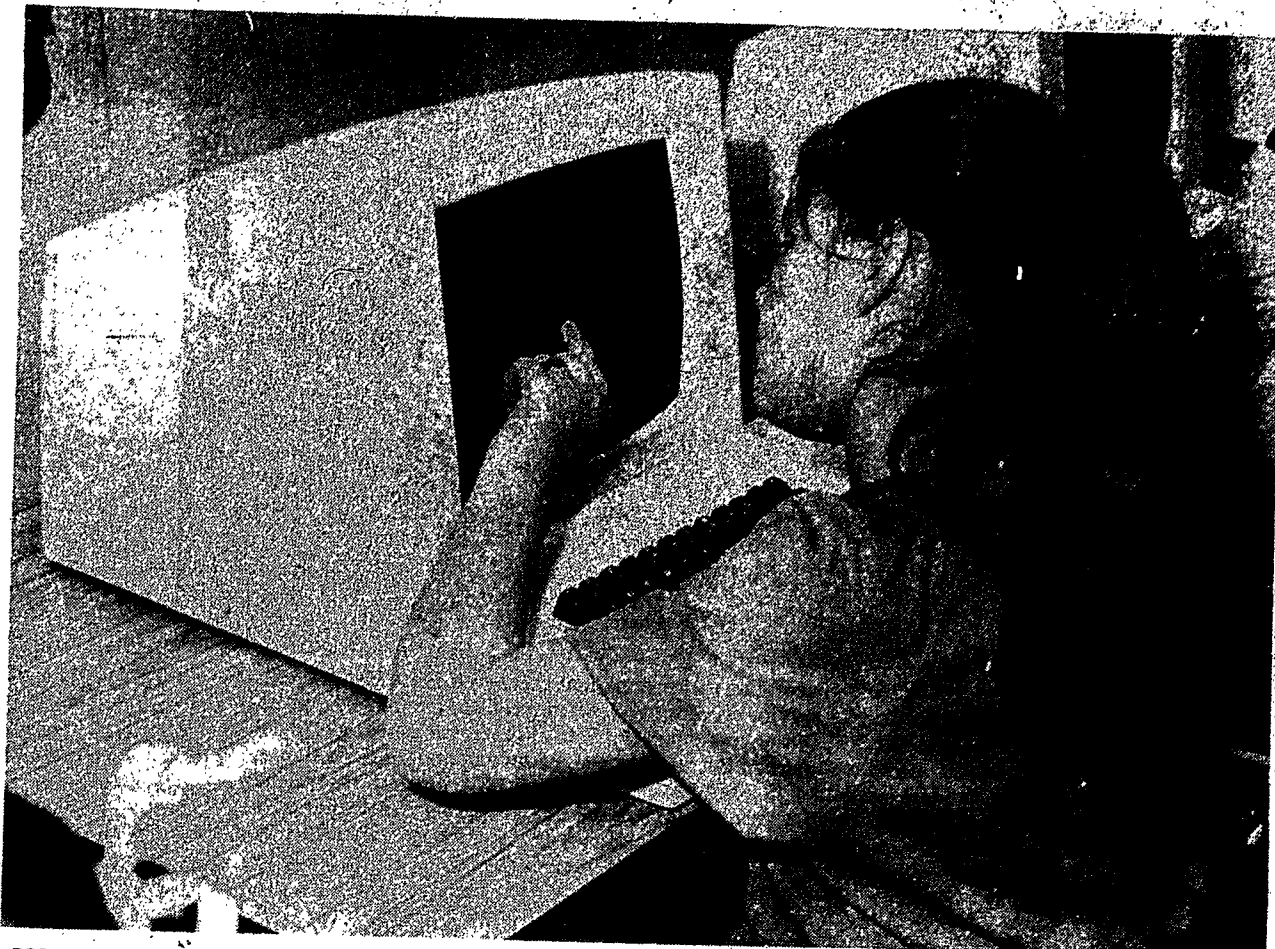

Jones reports the type of computer drills children receive are based on the individual child's ability, then the computer automatically adjusts these exercises based on the student's performance.

"If a child is not making progress or not progressing as rapidly as he should, the CAI teacher will diagnose the problem and do follow-up work to help correct it," she states.

The Chapter One supervisor says children in the program work 50 percent more problems with the computer than with conventional paper-and-pencil methods.

"The computer offers the child a mixed drill with all types of problems at all times or it can teach one drill if problem areas are found," Jones notes.

Students know immediately if their answers are right or wrong, Jones says regarding the 'feedback' attribute of the system.

COMPUTER TERMINAL—Utilizing a computer terminal at Waveland Elementary School to work a mathematics problem is Edwina Henley.

Maxine Jaquith, the Waveland Elementary computer proctor, states, "I have tutored for four years and I haven't seen the kind of good results like these students are showing here."

She also notes that as a secondary benefit the students are becoming familiar with the modern world of computers.

Barbara Davis is the North Bay computer proctor.

Jones reports that increased funding through the Chapter One program allowed the purchase of the computer system which is a nationally validated program.

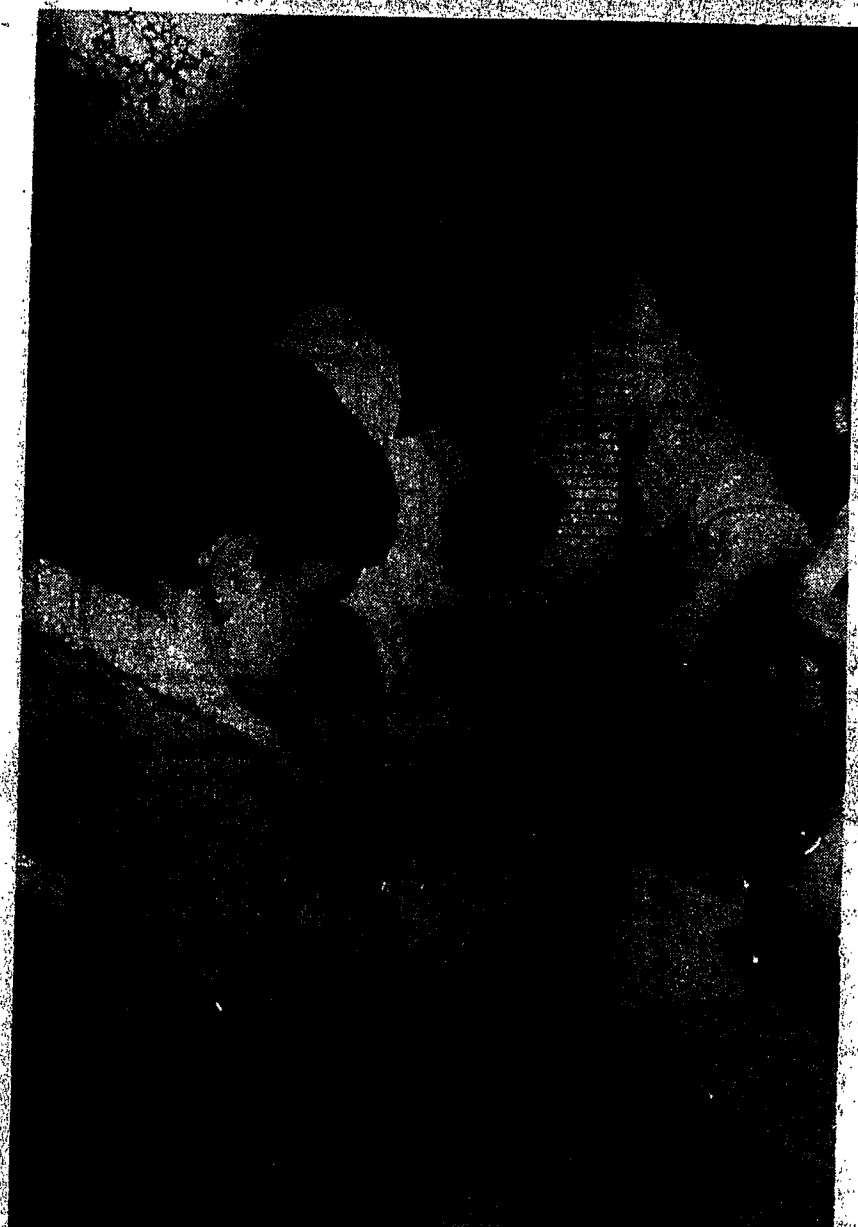

A lease-purchase agreement with the manufacturer, Computer Curriculum Corp. of Palo Alto, Calif., will allow the school district to eventually purchase the equipment, she says.

The cost per child for CAI is $96 annually, but that amount will decrease as the number of students utilizing the program increases, Jones reports.

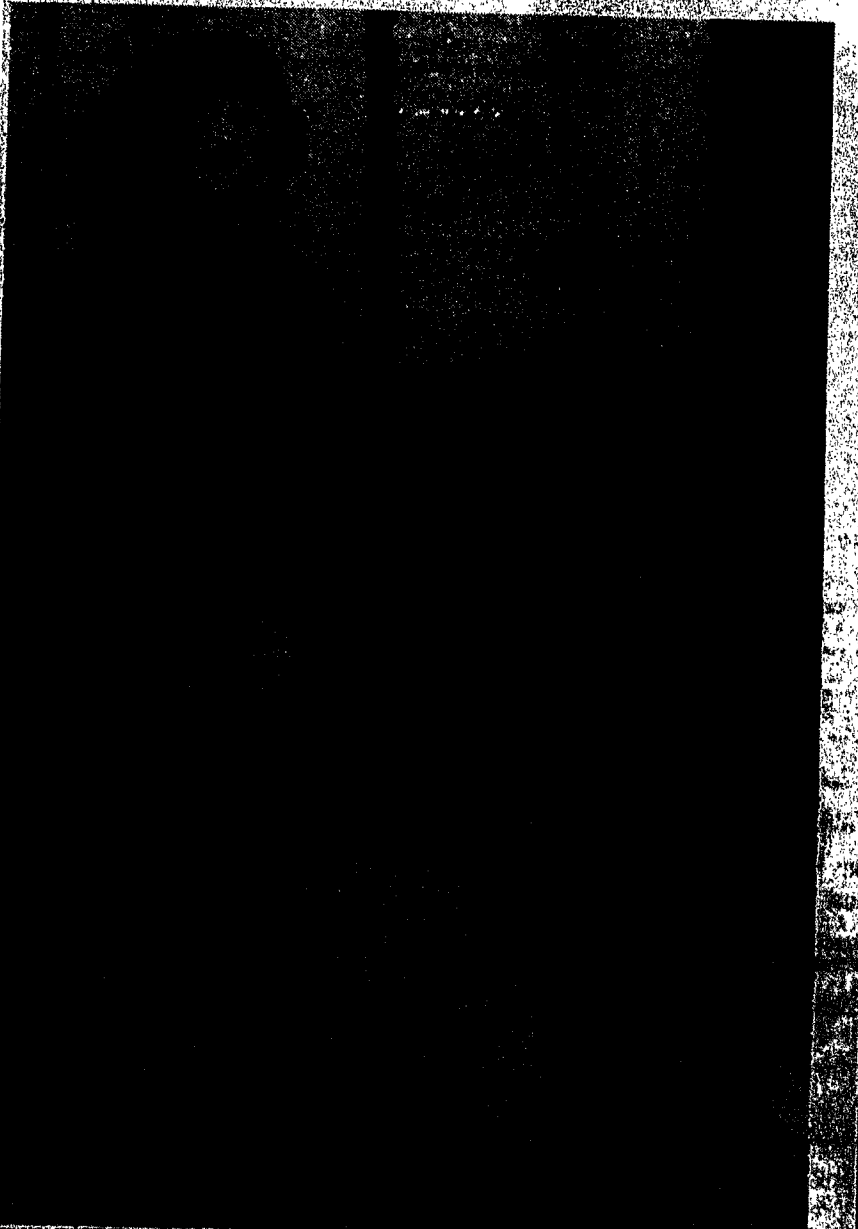

But the district will continue to lease software containing the various drills because this material is continually being updated, Jones adds.

CONCENTRATION—Working a mathematics problem utilizing a computer terminal at Waveland Elementary School is Christy Lockard.

COMPUTER TEACHER—Helping Davy Adams of Waveland Elementary School with a mathematics problem is Lynn Parrish, Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District computer teacher.

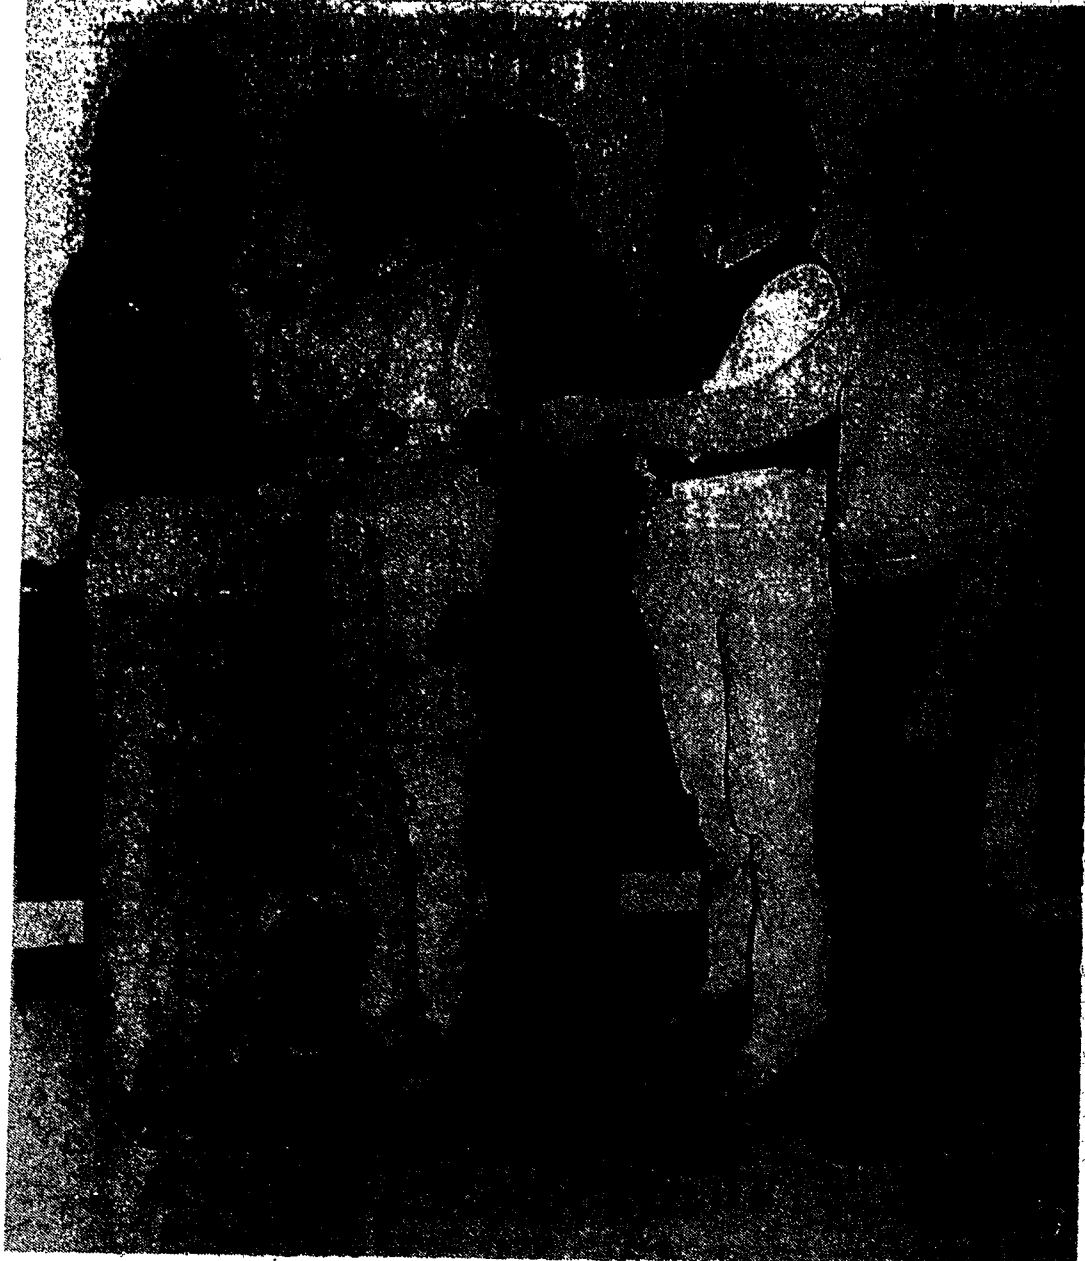

THE HUMAN ELEMENT—Working a mathematics problem utilizing computer terminals is teacher aide Maxine Jaquith.

WORKING A MATHEMATICS PROBLEM—Working a mathematics problem utilizing computer terminals at Waveland Elementary School are Karen Simpson, left, and Lisa Hawkins.

MINI COMPUTER—Standing by Fred the mini computer at Waveland Elementary School are computer proctor Maxine Jaquith and Dr. Betty Ann Jones, Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Chapter One supervisor.

MARCH OF DIMES DONATION—Presenting $250 in donations recently to Elise Madden, left, March of Dimes Magnolia Chapter service coordinator are, from right, Tammy Seals, president, and Diana Dowden, March of Dimes peer educator, both of the Bay Senior High School Future Homemakers of America Club; and Denise Hopgood, president, and Michelle House, March of Dimes peer educator, both of the Bay Junior High School FHA. Madden reports the Bay organizations were the only such student groups in south Mississippi which contributed to the March of Dimes this year. The groups raised the money by conducting student-faculty basketball games and collected $25 of that amount by selling candygrams. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

HNC teachers continue 'Master Teacher' study

Hancock North Central High School teachers are continuing a professional development program begun last semester called 'The Master Teacher.' Principal D.E. Hillman reports.

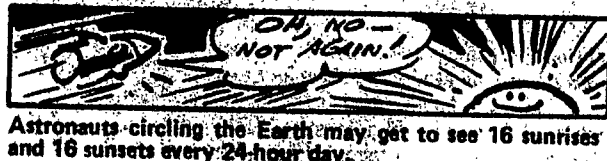

Hillman says the intensive curriculum includes studies regarding communication skills, testing and grading, student relationships, discipline, student motivation, professionalism and ethics.

"We also recognize that the children in any given classroom have a wide range of interests, abilities and motivations."

"Because of this, we have made a commitment to learn and employ the methods, techniques and skills which will give each teacher the highest probability of success in the classroom."

Hillman notes that professional growth in any job, occupation or profession is a prerequisite for achieving and maintaining success.

"The individual and collective purpose of our study is to help each teacher help each student at Hancock North Central High School find success."

Alcorn to observe Black History

Tony Brown, host and executive producer of "Tony Brown's Journal," will be the keynote speaker at Alcorn State University during its Black History Month activities Feb. 16 at 1 p.m. in the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Complex.

The founding Dean of Howard University's School of Communications, Brown was selected one of the "Top National Black Newsmakers" by the National Newspaper Publishers Association and one of the '100 Most Influential Black Americans' by "Ebony Magazine."

He is president of the National Association of Black Media Producers, author of a nationally syndicated newspaper column and produces "Tony Brown at Daybreak," a lead-in for the "Today Show" in Washington, D.C.

Brown's other honors include the 1973 Communicator for Freedom Award from

Operation PUSH, and a listing in "Who's Who in America."

Other Black History Month activities at ASU include a Mr. and Miss Black History Month Pageant held Jan. 31 with special guest Miss Black America Sharon Robinson, a concert violinist; a Miss Black and Gold Pageant on Feb. 2 sponsored by Alpha Phi Fraternity, Inc.; a speech by Charles Carter, associate general counsel-NAACP, New York, on Feb. 8; and a tribute to the father of Black History, Carter G. Woodson, presented Feb. 9 by Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc. and Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. All activities are free. The public is invited.

Three new members join PRC board

Pearl River College's Board of Trustees welcomed three new members to its January meeting.

The new members are Dr. Thomas Blakeney of Marion County, Emil Pav of Lamar County and Walter Cartier of Forrest County. All three were recently elected Superintendent of Education in their respective counties.

President Marvin R. White reported that the Mississippi Junior Colleges' legislative request included increased state funds for a salary increase for all employees, an option for the board of trustees of each junior college to change the name of the junior college to community college, relief on the 10 percent increase from county financial support for junior colleges, and relief from liability lawsuits now that the courts have ruled out state sovereignty.

Dr. White also reported on an effort by some junior colleges to develop a new formula for disbursing state appropriated funds for junior colleges.

Jack Stewart of Poplarville, representing Pearl River County, will serve as chairman of the board during 1984.

Dennis Fortenberry of Prentiss, the Jefferson Davis County Superintendent of Education, will serve as vice chairman.

Pate Lumpkin of Carriere and Superintendent of Education of Pearl River County is board secretary.

Other Pearl River College Board members are George Curry of Hattiesburg, Everette Eaton of Sunnall, Frank Fortenberry of Columbus, Edmond T. Mitchell of Piquette, Greg Mitchell of Piquette, Kathryn Moody of Poplarville, Terrell Randolph of Bay St. Louis, Charles Speed of Prentiss, and James C. Thrifflay III of Bay St. Louis.

JSU gets $250,000 from General Motors

Jackson State University President John A. Peoples Jr. has announced that the University has been awarded a $250,000 grant from General Motors Corporation to establish an endowed scholarship fund for students.

The grant was made possible through a joint agreement between General Motors Corporation and the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) as part of a GM, EEOC and United Auto Workers Agreement signed in October 1983.

Dr. Peoples said the funds will be placed in the University's Development Foundation to establish the Jackson State University-General Motors Endowed Scholarship Fund.

A $50,000 initial installment on the grant has been received by the university. The terms of the grant call for an annual installment of $50,000 through 1987 for a total of $250,000.

The grant agreement stipulates that these funds be invested as a permanent endowment with only the interest monies used to award student scholarships, beginning with the 1984-85 school year.

In addition, the scholarships are earmarked for minorities and women, with preference given to General Motors employees, their spouses and offspring.

General Motors officials said the basic purpose of these scholarships is to provide an educational opportunity for individuals who otherwise may not be able to attend college to prepare themselves for a career in business and industry.

Increased opportunities for education in the fields of engineering and technology are a primary objective of the program although choices for training are not limited to these areas.

Dr. Peoples said the scholarships will be awarded to students who matriculate in the School of Science and Technology or the School of Business and Economics.

Short Takes

A perfectionist is anyone who thinks fireflies should be checked for loose connections, to keep them from blinking.

People who don't believe in hell have never tried to get the last of the syrup out of one of those cutesy-pit syrup jars.

Friend of ours grumps that the stuff he gets on his hands when outdoors isn't penicillin from heaven—it's fly ash from the illuminating plant's boilers.

If you had it to do all over again, chances are you'd make more mistakes than the first time.

If marriages are made in heaven, how come there's such an awful recall rate on the product?

Mississippi Brownbuilder Glenda Allen: One of the best

Glenda Allen, from Escatawpa, is helping build local economic growth and progress as part of Brown & Root's worldwide engineering and construction team.

Glenda joined Brown & Root in 1979 as a blueprint clerk and is now a blueprint supervisor living in Hattiesburg. A graduate of Moss Point High School, she enjoys traveling, swimming and fishing. While with Brown & Root, Glenda has taken courses in civil blueprint reading and instruction in CPR techniques.

Another thing about Glenda: she's one of the best. She's helping Brown & Root do a better job, because she knows her job and gets it done right.

Open shop, open opportunity

Brownbuilders like Glenda share with all of us a feeling of pride in individual contributions to the total success of every project on which we work. Brown & Root's open shop policy means open opportunity for people to do their best. We offer training in valuable skills and reward good work with advancement that's based on the individual's ability and merit. That way we get the best people at every job level.

The community benefits

Through our local offices, we offer employment to a high percentage of community residents. The dollars they earn circulate locally in sales, savings and taxes, benefiting business and government. The additional skills and experience they acquire are lasting community benefits.

Our standard of quality:
Doing things right the first time.

Kermit the Frog to chair 1984 National Wildlife Week

Kermit the Frog, one of Jim Henson's internationally known Muppets and host of TV's award-winning "The Muppet Show," is honorary chairman of the 1984 National Wildlife Week.

The 48th annual Wildlife Week, sponsored by the Nateping promote the importance of clean water and the necessity of conserving critical water resources.

"Kermit is the perfect chairman for the 1984 water conservation theme," said NWF Executive Vice President Jay D. Hair.

Appearing in the public service announcements with fellow Muppet Fozzie Bear, Kermit says, "Water is something we have to conserve and keep clean."

The broadcast announcements are being distributed nationally to 600 television and 1,500 radio stations.

As part of his duties as chairman, Kermit will also be the featured speaker at the NWF's annual conservation awards banquet on March 17 in Atlanta, Ga. in conjunction with the federation's annual meeting.

NWF is the nation's largest conservation organization with 4.1 million members and supporters, including members in 49 state affiliates.

Kermit the Frog

Water sustains all life forms and is the key ingredient to healthy ecosystems. "It is essential in every industrial process—in cooling machinery, in assimilating wastes, in transporting products and in materials composition."

"Unfortunately," Hair continued, "usable water supplies are dwindling because of contamination, mismanagement and waste."

"We hope that during the course of the year we can impress Americans that water protection and conservation are priority issues."

Water is the earth's most precious resource. The earth is covered with 326 million cubic miles of water, of which only three percent is fresh water.

Human bodies are composed of about 65 percent water.

Americans use as much as 700 billion gallons of fresh water a day.

Each year several billion tons of soil are washed into our waterways, making them unfit for use.

About 4.2 trillion gallons of rain and snow fall on the contiguous 48 states on a typical day.

Since the beginning of this century, the U.S. population has increased about 200 percent while per capita water use has increased 500 to 800 percent.

national Wildlife Federation, will be observed March 18 to 24.

Its conservation theme, "Water—We Can't Live Without It," will be promoted throughout the year.

More than 20 million students, teachers and conservationists will participate in the Wildlife Week observance,

"Kermit is immensely popular with millions of people of all ages. And who knows more about the importance of clean water than a frog?"

Kermit will speak on behalf of the National Wildlife Federation in NWF's public service announcements that promote conservation of the nation's dwindling supplies of usable water.

SUBSTITUTED TRUSTEE'S NOTICE OF SALE

WHEREAS, on the 6th day of May, 1983, Robert Juneau, Sr. and wife, Edith Juneau, executed a Deed of Trust to Larry O. Morris, Trustee, for the use and benefit of John Lott, which Deed of Trust is recorded in Book 252 at page 752 of the Land Records of Hancock County, Mississippi, and said Deed of Trust authorized the appointment and the provisions of the Deed of Trust in the place of the Trustee named in the Deed of Trust and John Lott appointed Larry O. Morris as Trustee in the place of Larry O. Morris by instrument dated 30th day of January, 1984, and of record in Book 261 at page 166 of the Land Records of Hancock County, Mississippi; and

WHEREAS, default has been made and still continues in the payment of said indebtedness as when due and the undersigned Substituted Trustee has been called upon by John Lott, the owner and holder of the indebtedness, to foreclose and sell the property covered by said Deed of Trust in accordance with the provisions of the Deed of Trust, and the purpose of raising the sum so secured and unpaid, together with the expenses of enforcing the same, including Trustee's and Attorney's fees; and

NOW, THEREFORE, I, the undersigned Substituted Trustee, do hereby give notice that on the 30th day of March, 1984, between the hours of 11:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., I will proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash at the front door of the Courthouse of Hancock County, at Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, the following described land and property which is situated in the County of Hancock, Mississippi, and more particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Lot 7, Square 4-4, Shoreline Park Subdivision, Unit 1, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, as per plat of said subdivision of record in the office of the Clerk of Hancock County, Mississippi.

The undersigned Substituted Trustee believes that this title as Substituted Trustee is good and lawful and that such title as is vested in him by the Deed of Trust aforesaid.
